FLAMES SWEEP AWAY FIGHTERS, WIPE OUT TOWNS

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 23.—The Governor to-day ordered out the State militia to fight the forest fires in the Couer d'Alene country in the northern part of the State.

The flames are raging unchecked, despite the efforts of thirty companies of Federal soldiers and the Forestry Bureau men.

NORTH DAKOTA, 1,000 MILES AWAY. COVERED BY SMOKE.

A dispatch from Fargo, N. D., says ashes are falling there to-day and the country is covered with smoke carried 1,000 miles from the burning forests. All of North Dakota is darkened, and at many points, including Fargo, electric lights are in use in the day time.

While freshening winds are fanning the forest fires to greater fury, refugees continued to pour into every town before the safety line. After terrible hardships a party of men, women and children reached here, having fled from the Idaho Panhandle country near Wallace, escaping only with the clothes on their backs.

Looters Shot to Death.

Two looters caught in the ruins of the burned portion of Wallace, have been shot to death by negro troopers of the Twenty-fifth United States Infantry policing the town. The robbers were attempting to get into a safe when surprised and were captured after a struggle.

Several other looters have been chased from the devastated district of the town and bad characters suspected of having attempted to steal from the ruins have been run from the town by civilians.

Efforts are being made to find a man accused of having set fire to the town. According to a statement made by the authorities by a citizen, he saw a man, whom he described, set fire to the Whelan building, where the blaze started.

Efforts are being made to get relief to sixty-five forestry service men trapped near Sand Point, headed by Ranger Vandick. As many more are known to be near Peck, with only a day's supply of food. Pack trains seeking to reach them have been driven back.

Several refugees reaching Elk City on their way to other points have gone insane.

The railroads are making practically no attempt to run trains to-day because of the destruction of bridges. Repair gangs have been able to reach only a few places. Several hundred soldiers and 450 rangers are making a last stand in Shoshone county and near Missoula, Mont.

Story of Survivor.

Pease, one of the survivors from the Panhandle, told a dramatic story of the fight to-day:

"We had become anxious at the smoke," he said, "and could see flames from our little mountain home, but we believed that the country about us was safe. We were awakened in the middle of the night by a band of blackened singed fire fighters. "Get out," they said. The flames were then sweeping toward our cabin down the mountainside at the rate of three or four miles an hour and the heat was so intense that one could not approach the fire line within a mile. We had no time or opportunity to save our belongings. Ashes were falling as thick as from a volcano and embers flew from gully to gully as if they were shot from guns.

Before we had got across a narrow valley from our home it was in flames.

"On the edge of the danger zone we met bands of forest rangers. They were fighting for their lives, very often. In every case they were exhausted and so blackened that they seemed like demons as they worked in the glare of the fires. Again and again I saw men drop exhausted while their companions were too busy or too tired to help them away. I am convinced that some of these men were overlooked and perished.

"In some instances dynamite was set off from the trees in the hope of bringing rain. That is the only thing that could check the flames. Every body of water we came to was in use as a refuge. We heard of instances where men were rescued from ponds after being in them twenty-four hours. One man in the Wardner country collapsed unknown to his companions and was drowned. Under the rain of firebrands these refugees could keep only their eyes and noses above water. In many cases these were burned. Many were blinded that way. But still more were blinded while trying to get out of the country. The smoke was awful. It choked us and inflamed the eyes. In one stretch for five miles we struggled on with wet cloths to our mouths every foot of the way. If it had not been for the wet cloths we'd never have made it.

"There were magnificent sights to be seen, but few had a mind for such things. The fall of burning trees and the geysers of embers were sights that will never be forgotten by those who saw them. But I'd as soon not have seen them. It was noticed, however, that the men close to the danger did not realize the horror of it all. They were too close, they couldn't grasp the magnitude of it. Perhaps in a month or a year they will see it in its true proportions. But not now. I heard them jest when they appeared trapped. I joked myself only when we thought we would not get out. Its only now that the experience is past that I'm beginning to see how awful it was."

There are nearly 2000 refugees at Missoula. Trains to-day added many to the number taken there last night. Exhausted fighters are struggling in after the inhabitants are saved.

ARREST SIBLEY FOR CONSPIRACY TO BRIBE VOTERS

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 23.—Ex-Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, who retired yesterday from the fight for re-election, was arrested to-day on a charge of conspiracy to debauch voters. He was later released on his own recognizance after promising to appear for a hearing. The charges are made by the supporters of William J. Breene, his Democratic opponent, whom Sibley defeated for the nomination.

Sibley's secretary, Frank H. Taylor, was also arrested. The hearing was set for Friday. Besides Sibley and Taylor the ex-Congressman's campaign managers in Warren county, Charles Crondall, D. M. Howard and George B. Munn, are also defendants.

Sibley's remarkable expenditure of $42,500 in his recent successful campaign for renomination to Congress was exposed by the New York American.

Complains of Ill Health.

The announcemtnt of his withdrawal surprised his opponents and filled his supporters with chagrin, although Mr. Sibley explained his acti n on the ground of failing health.

The revelations made exclusively in the New York American had brought about an audit of Sibley's campaign expenses on complaint of Breene. And the fact that Sibley withdrew while the audit is still under way caused his opponents to believe that his physical condition was not the chief reason for his action.

Many go so far as to say that the campaign was abondoned in the hope of stopping the audit, which was expected to prove that money had been spent at rate of $4 a vote, and that cash was even presented to voters at the polls.

Standard Oil attorneys, mindful of "Dear Friend" Sibley's services to John D. Archbold, flocked to court and to his defence when the application for audit was made. They did everything they could to belittle and hamper the inquiry.

Voters Given $2 Bills.

The Board of Audit began its investigation about ten days ago. Hundreds of witnesses voluntarily testified as to the bribery and other unlawful means to which Sibley partisans resorted to secure his nomination. In a single district, it is charged, twelve hundred voters were given $2 each to vote for Sibley. In another a hotel was leased for three days by Sibley's backers and everything in it was free to men who voted "right." Threats of loss of business were made to opponents of Sibley by interests affiliated with the Standard Oil Company.

Returns were doctored to suit the demands of the Sibley party, or withheld until it was made known how many votes were needed to overcome the opposition. In at least one district, not only were the returns deliberately altered in his favor, but the tally sheets were burned.

In many districts a cigar was presented to each voter. It was encased in a silk wrapper labelled, "Vote for Sibley." When the wrapper was removed a $2 bill was revealed.

INQUIRY OPENS IN BEEF CASE

The government began its inquiry into the affairs of the beef trust in New England at the Federal building to-day.

The government to-day is withholding all information as to the scope of the investigation. District Attorney French to-day declined to gives the names of corporations or individuals who would be summonsed to tell of the business which the companies conduct in New England.

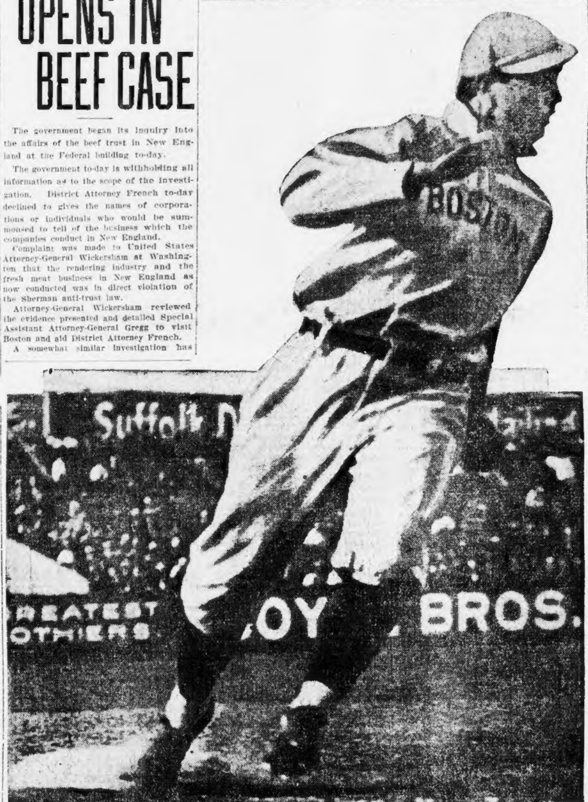

Complaint was made to United States Attorney-General Wickersham at Washington that the rendering industry and the fresh meat business in New England as now conducted was in direct violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Attorney-General Wickersham reviewed the evidence presented and detailed Special Assistant Attorney-General Gregg to visit Boston and aid District Attorney French.

A somewhat similar investigation has been held in Chicago during the past few weeks.

The principal witness to appear before the jury at to-day's session was Hugh J. Robertson, Jr., of Portsmouth, president of the Eastern Oil & Rendering Company. The summons was served yesterday by United States Marshal Nate of Portsmouth. Previous to his appointment in his present position Mr. Robertson was New England manager of one of the large packing houses. He was a witness before the Chicago grand jury a short time ago.

Hooper's Great Home Run Makes a New Hit Record

Rightfielder Harry Hooper passing third base on his way home on his long four-bagger, in the eighth inning of yesterday's Red Sox-St. Louis game. This hit gave him the slugging record for a single game in Boston this year and one of the best records made by any hitter in the major leagues thus far in 1910. Four times at bat, he walloped out two three-baggers, a single and a home run off Pitched Lake of St. Louis—four hits for a total of eleven bases. Until the last two innings his three-bagger and a single were all the safe ones the Red Sox had made off Lake except a scratch single by Speaker.

SHOOTS FAMILY AND SELF

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 23.—Paul Davis, colored, of Boston shot and seriously wounded his wife and his three-year-old daughter, and then attempted to commit suicide at their lodgings, No. 136 Cotting street, to-day.

All three are at the Providence Hospital, but have not yet been placed upon the dangerous list. They are negroes.

Davis, who is thirty-two years old, is employed as a train porter. He returned home intoxicated to-day. There was a scene, and then he drew a thirty-two calibre revolver and fired two shots at his wife, both of which took effect in the abdomen.

He then fired at his infant daughter Margaret who was cowering in a corner, striking her in the groin. Both fell to the ground and thinking that he had killed them he went out into the back yard where he turned the pistol on himself. The shot took effect in his breast.

The police and ambulances were summoned and all three were taken to the hospital.

Davis came from Boston with his wife and daughter about a fortnight ago. His wife's mother lives on Newton street, Boston, and Davis has a brother who is employed in the navy yard.

BURGLAR INTRUDES ON WOMAN SLEEPER

Mrs. Dora Schwartz, who occupies a first floor suite at No. 93 Franklin street, Malden, reported to the police to-day that while she was in bed at 1:30 a masked man entered her bedroom and ransacked the bureau. He then turned to a table and took $2 out of a pocketbook. After going into another room he returned to the one where she sleeps and lifting a screen dropped out of a window to the ground. Mrs. Schwartz, who is a young woman, says she was too scared to scream.

"KAISER WOULDN'T TAKE PEACE PRIZE"

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The rumor that the next Nobel peace prize would go to the Kaiser was received here with doubt today. Dr. W. Evans Darby, secretary of the Peace Society, said: "I do not think the Emperor will receive it. Theodore Roosevelt was awarded the prize because of his peace efforts. The claim of the Kaiser, however, is negative, being based on his maintenance of peace by refusing to break a situation existent twenty years."

MICHIGAN CENSUS FIGURES.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The Census Bureau to-day made public the following population returns:

Michigan—Battle Creek, 25,267; last census, 18,563; increase, 36.1 per cent.; Flint, 38,550; last census, 13,103; increase, 194.2 per cent.; Jackson, 31,443; last census, 25,180; increase, 24.8 per cent.

BURGLARS IN PISTOL BATTLE

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 23.—A corps of police from this city searched the woods near Portland this afternoon for three men believed to be yeggs with whom Policeman Stetson early to-day had a pistol duel, in which it is believed one or more of the trio were wounded.

Policeman Stetson was talking to Dr. Andrews on Main street when he caught sight of three men sneaking along in an apparent attempt to escape observation. The policeman called on them to halt, but they paid no attention to him. The policeman began to shoot, and they replied, a running fight being kept up until about twenty shots were fired. The men got away.

Later two men were taken from a train as suspicious. One escaped, and the other was discharged. Word came to the police that the Lisbon Falls postoffice had been robbed last night of $55 in cash and a lot of stamps, and it is thought it was the work of the yeggs seen here.

DEPEWS BACK; PRAISE FRANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew returned from Europe to-day with Mrs. Depew, after six weeks spent abroad, chiefly in Paris. The Senator is an enthusiastic admirer of the French people and declared that they were the thriftiest nation on earth.

"The peasant farmer, the small shopkeeper and the workingman all save money," said Senator Depew. "They saved $500,000,000 last year and turned it over to the French banker for investment. Russia now has three billions of dollars of French money, and the United States is beginning to get some of it. We have about $100,000,000 of French money now invested with us. France is the only lending nation to-day; all the others are borrowers."

The Senator refused to discuss politics, saying it was too dangerous ground for him to tread on.

CLOTHING MAKER SUICIDE IN HOTEL

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—William S. Klee, a rich young clothing manufacturer, shot and killed himself in his apartment on the third floor of the Ansonia to-day. Nervous breakdown is given as the cause of the suicide, which was entirely unexpected, as Mr. Klee had recently returned from a most successful business trip in the West. Mrs. Klee and her daughter were in another room of the apartment when the shot was fired and the widow fainted when she discovered the body of her husband.

SPANISH CAPTAIN GIVES RACING CUP

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 23.—The trial races at Buzzard's Bay September 3 to select an American team of sonder boats to meet the German boats at Kiel next June have had further incentive offered by the presentation of a cup by Captain Luis Arana of the Spanish boat Chonta, recently defeated for the President Taft and Governor Draper trophies at Marblehead.

The cup has been presented to the Eastern Yacht Club without any restrictions whatever; the cup to go to the winning sender in the series of races. Captain Arana presented the cup to Commodore Clark at the banquet of the Eastern Yacht Club and was cheered to the echo.

There'll Be No Compromise, Declares Colonel Roosevelt

"I am very much pleased with President Taft's statement. I think it makes the situation clear. If Nassau county wishes me to go to the State convention I will go. I think that the issue is absolutely clear cut. As far as I am concerned there will not be a particle of compromise."—Statement by Colonel Roosevelt today before his departure for Utica.

THREE ARE KILLED IN MARYLAND CRASH

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 23.—Three men were killed and six injured in a head-on collision between two Western Maryland freight trains at Raven Rock bridge on the main line of the Western Maryland railroad.

ANOTHER FLAME SWEPT REGION IN CALIFORNIA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Still another forest fire in an entirely new section was reported to the forest service to-day when District Forester Olmstead at San Francisco asked for troops to fight fires at the western slope of the Sierras, east of Sacramento. The War Department has ordered three companies of infantry from the Presidio barracks at San Francisco to that point. District Forester Olmstead expresses much alarm over the situation in the Kehoe district. He said that it is feared that if the strong winds do not die down before night the flames may reach beyond the reserve and will leap across the valleys beyond it.

FEAR RACING YACHTS ARE LOST IN STORM

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Yachtsmen are anxious to hear from the racing yachts San Bab and Raven with eight people on board which were to have sailed from Macatawa Bay last night for Chicago to participate in the Sir John Mutting cup races on Thursday. If the boats tried to cross the lake last night they were surely lost in the storm, according to Commodore Baum of the Chicago Yacht Club.

MOISSANT READY TO FLY TO LONDON

LONDON, Aug. 23.—John B. Moissant, the American aviator, this afternoon completed the repairs to his Bleriot monoplane in which he is flying from Paris to London. He announced that he would ascend in the morning from Seven Oaks and attempt to cover the twenty-two miles left.

TOY AIRSHIPS SENT ALOFT TO BOOM BIG MEET

Not content with waiting until the real fliers reach the city, the managers of the Harvard aviation meet enjoyed a few flights from the headquarters at No. 164 Washington street this morning. But Charles J. Glidden and William H. Willard, who acted as starters and judges in the meet, were not sending any men aloft. The machines were flying toy aeroplanes which were sent to the headquarters to be used as an advertising feature.

For awhile all Washington street stopped and gazed. One of the keenest in the sport of sending the little airships out over Adams Square was Cromwell Dixon, the boy pilot of the Dixon dirigible who will make flights during the big meet at Squantum. He made his final arrangements this morning for the storage of the big machine at the Harvard aviation grounds. The machine will arrive here within a few days and next Monday the first flight will be made.

Dixon and His Balloon.

Dixon is the boy who when thirteen years old startled the country by building a dirigible. Since that time he has been experimenting with air craft and to-day stands as one of the foremost among dirigible aviators. His balloon has a lifting power of about 400 pounds which is sufficient to carry his fifty pounds of sand, the motor and himself. The balloon is sufficient to raise him from the ground and the motor carries the machine at a rate of twelve miles an hour.

Already many of the society women of Boston are planning to attend the meet and entertain parties. Many are reserving parking lots for their touring cars, while many are also engaging boxes. Mrs. Curtis Guild is much interested in the meet and will entertain a number of her friends during the nine days.

Wellman Not Coming.

It was announced to-day that Walter Wellman would not be able to fly at the meet since the men who are assembling the big machine with which he hopes to cross the Atlantic have found that if the start is to be made on September 7 they will have to work night and day.

A popular announcement made to-day was that Harry L. Cook of Newton Upper Falls will have complete charge of the score board. Mr. Cook is not only popular, but has arranged a clever system by which the announcements will be made.

DICTIONARY COUPON

Tuesday, Aug. 23.

SEVEN COUPONS OF CONSECUTIVE DATES CONSTITUTE A SET.

Dictionary Dept., 272 Devonshire St., Boston

3 LIBRARIES CARNEGIE GIFT TO WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Aug. 23.—As a mark of esteem for Mayor James Logan and the citizens of Worcester, Andrew Carnegie has promised to build three branch library buildings in Worcester in any locations that the city government may designate, and the Mayor will shortly communicate the good news officially to the city government.

The Mayor has been keeping it quiet and did not intend that the story should leak out until he was ready to make known the details of the gift in an official communication to the city government.

When the Mayor went to Europe in June he had an invitation to visit Mr. Carnegie on his famous estate, Skibo Castle, in Scotland, but arrived too late to meet Mr. Carnegie. He had a conference with Mr. Carnegie's brother-in-law, and as the latter had authority to act for Mr. Carnegie, the Mayor then virtually secured a promise that the city of Worcester would get the three branch library buildings. Later he received the offer in writing.

DON'T MISS A DICTIONARY; CLIP COUPONS

School days are near and there is not a boy or girl in Greater Boston, or New England for that matter, who should not avail themselves of the opportunity to obtain the genuine Webster dictionary which the BOSTON AMERICAN offers.

Through the BOSTON AMERICAN they can get a book which will help them every day in their studies, and they can get it at about one-third the price they would have to pay at a bookstore. All they need to do is clip Dictionary Coupons for seven consecutive days from the BOSTON AMERICAN and present them, with the small sum which is asked for the dictionary by the publishers, through the medium of this newspaper.

Prize Is For All.

In all the history of premiums no such offer as this has ever been made. It is like finding a prize. For seven coupons and 35 cents a boy or girl, or in fact any reader, old or young, and engaged in any occupation, can obtain a Webster's Dictionary, which is the standard work of its kind, and own something which tells of every word they are ever likely to see in print or wish to speak, how to pronounce it and how to spell it. Besides this it contains many, many illustrations and a lot of information which is helpful to every student and, in fact, to everybody who can read at all. It is a book that will not only be useful throughout the life of every one who owns it, but it is a very durable volume. It is bound in cloth which is calculated to stand all the usage it is reasonable to give a book; it has good print, and the paper is of good quality.

Gives Practical Help.

It is a condensation of the New International Dictionary, containing practically everything which the big one has within its covers which any boy or girl, their father or mother, their brother or sister is likely to have to look up for reference. Foreign Governments turn to Webster's Dictionary when they want to learn anything about the English language.

Anybody who gets this book through the BOSTON AMERICAN will have something which will greatly add to his or her vocabularly and help them to speak and write correctly and make a better appearance in society besides aiding them in whatever work they do.

For all the ordinary needs of school or home life, for work in the office or elsewhere the cloth-covered copy of this dictionary is all that could be asked for. But for those who wish a better bound book and are willing to pay a little higher price, the BOSTON AMERICAN is also distributing the same work in little more classy bindings in two other styles. Both are obtained by saving Dictionary Coupons for seven consecutive days and by paying sixty-five and ninety-five cents, respectively.

Will Grace the Library.

The 65 cents and seven coupons premium, called No. 2, is bound in tan-colored calf, is flexible, has square corners and stained edges. With the exception of color maps and charts its contents are the same as No. 3, which is distributed as a premium for the coupons and 95 cents. No. 2 is an ideal dictionary for a business man's desk.

No. 3, which calls for 95 cents and seven coupons, is a book which will grace any library table. It is bound in seal-grained morocco, is semi-flexible, has a patent thumb index and contains a general map of the United States, a general map of the world, flags of all nations, flags and pennants of the international code, the signal code, service code and astronomical charts of the planetary system.

DEMOREST LLOYD TO RACE SONDER BOATS

Demorest Lloyd, owner of the schooner Shiyessa and prominent member of the Eastern Yacht Club, has taken up sonder boat racing.

Through the agency of John G. Alden he has purchased Laurence F. Percival's sonder Sally XI, and will enter the trial races at Buzzard's Bay on September 3.

Mr. Lloyd recently sailed his schooner Shiyessa against Harold S. Vanderbilt's Vagrant in the race from New York to Bermuda.

He is likely to build a new sonder next season.

TAFT'S SMILE GONE; WORRY ON THE LINKS

BEVERLY, Aug. 23.—Deep gloom envelops the atmosphere at the golf links of the Myopia Hunt Club, for two days have now passed and the presidential smile has failed to appear and spread its radiance over the famous course. TAFT DENIES SHARE IN MAKING SHERMAN N. Y. STATE LEADER

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—President Taft has repudiated Vice-President Sherman, his first lieutenant in the national administration, as well as other Republican leaders in New York State who assisted in the defeat of Theodore Roosevelt for temporary chairman of the Republican State Convention to be held in Saratoga next month.

The repudiation came in a letter from President Taft, dated at Beverly on Saturday, to Lloyd C. Griscom, president of the New York County Republican organization. The letter follows:

"Beverly, Mass., August 20, 1910.

"My dear Mr. Griscom:

"As you know from your telephone conversations with my office, I have steadily refused to admit the propriety or necessity of the President replying to newspaper statements which are not based on any act or authorized word of his, and have no sponsor. I am entirely willing, however, to reply categorically to your telegram on August 19, which has just arrived, and which is as follows:

I am informed and believe that several members of the New York Republican State Committee who voted for Vice President Sherman over ex-President Roosevelt as nominee for temporary chairman of the State Convention were influenced by statements that the Vice President's name was presented to defeat Colonel Roosevelt in accordance with your wishes. A member of the State Committee declared to me before the meeting that Mr. Sherman's candidacy had been arranged with you by telegraph the previous day.

Efforts have been made to create an impression that you favor a particular candidate for election as State chairman. I want you to know that the injection of the name of a high member of your administration into a factional conflict has produced a most complicated situation, and the absence of any authoritative information as to your attitude is seriously misleading many Republicans and impairing a movement for progressive party leadership and clean government in this State. I know you desire us to have a fair field, and hope that this may be made clear to the public.

Suggestion Wholly Untrue.

"The suggestion that I have ever expressed a wish to defeat Mr. Roosevelt for the temporary chairmanship of the convention or have ever taken the slightest step to do so, is wholly untrue. I never heard, Mr. Sherman's name suggested as temporary chairman of the State Convention until I saw in the newspaper of August 16 that he had been selected at the meeting of the committee.

"When you called at my house Saturday, August 13, you told me that Mr. Roosevelt intended to go to the convention as a delegate, and you suggested incidentally his being made temporary chairman—a suggestion in which I acquiesced. It did not occur to me that anyone would oppose it. This was the first time the subject of the temporary chairmanship was mentioned to me by anyone. You did not ask me to take any action whatever with respect to it.

Urged Conference with Roosevelt.

"After a full discussion of the New York State situation I drafted, in your presence, the following telegram and sent it Mr. Sherman:

Hon. James S. Sherman, Vice-President, Utica, N. Y.:

Please say to Ward and Woodruff that I have had a long conference with Griscom. He confirms my judgment, already expressed by you, that the whole situation in New York may be saved without humiliation to anyone, and with victory for the party, by a full conference with Mr. Roosevelt and reasonable concessions with reference to platform and candidacy.

"The thing of all others that ought to be avoided is a controversy in the convention. I am told by Mr. Griscom that such a conference with Mr. Roosevelt might convene [illegible] be held and would be welcomed by him before the State Committee meets on Tuesday. Hope you will be able to report satisfactory solution when you come on Wednesday.

"On the afternoon of Monday, August 15, Mr. Sherman telephoned me from New York, and for the first time apprised me of the fact that there was a proposal to oppose Mr. Roosevelt for the temporary chairmanship and that with Mr. Root's name. No other name than Mr. Root's was mentioned.

Refused to Be Drawn In.

"I protested against the idea of a contest on such a matter, peremptorily declined to be drawn into a fight against Mr. Roosevelt, and again renewed my urgent advice that there be prompt and full personal conference with Mr. Roosevelt before the committee meeting, with a view to securing harmony and victory for the party.

"Mr. Sherman called upon me here on the 17th instant to meet an engagement of a week's standing made with him and Mr. Loudenslager to discuss the congressional campaign text book. Mr. Loudenslager was prevented from coming by an illness. During the conference with Mr. Sherman I told him that I deplored the result of the meeting of the New York State Committee, because, unless the break were repaired, it meant division between New York Republicans and probable defeat.

"Upon leaving me, Mr. Sherman agreed to go into conference with Mr. Roosevelt, provided he were invited to do so, with a view to adjusting the situation, if possible. Mr. Nicholas Longworth was present, and said he would send a telegram to bring about a conference. What the result has been I do not know.

No Choice of Chairman.

"Finally, in your telegram, received this morning, you state that efforts have been made to create the impression that I favor a particular candidate for election as State chairman. This is absolutely untrue. I have expressed no opinion on the subject since an effort was made last Winter by the New York congressional delegation to secure Mr. Woodruff's retirement, which failed.

"I am very sorry indeed to observe columns of unfounded assertions in the newspapers concerning my attitude in respect to the New York situation. You know, however, as well as other New York leaders, that whenever my advice or assistance in reaching a satisfactory adjustment of the difficulties arising has been sought, I have urged the necessity for the fullest conference with Mr. Roosevelt by the members of the organization and, with due deference to honest difference of opinion, have expressed the view which I still entertain that the solution of the direct primary issue can be found in provisions similar to those of the Cobb bill as amended in accordance with the memorial signed by Seth Low, Mr. Joseph Choate and other prominent Republicans of New York city.

"Sincerely yours,

"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

SHERMAN LEAVES UTICA, ROOSEVELT TALKS TO FARMERS

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 23.—A great crowd turned out to greet ex-President Roosevelt at Summit Park, eight miles west of this city, this afternoon on the occasion of his visit to the union picnic of the Herkimer county grangers and the Grand Army veterans of Oneida county.

Colonel Roosevelt was due to reach Summit Park at 4:30 and following the delivery of his first formal speech since his return to the United States from the jungle, was to hold a brief reception and later go by automobile to Henderson House in Herkimer county, the estate of his brother-in-law, Douglas Robinson, where the ex-President will stay until to-morrow evening, when he starts westward on his 5,000-mile speech-making trip.

Two hours before the departure of Theodore Roosevelt from New York for this city Vice-President Sherman left by auto for Watertown, where he had some private business to transact in connection with the organization of a new banking company there in which he is interested. Before leaving he reiterated his refusal to discuss the letter issued by President Taft last night.

VAN WINKLE IN REAL LIFE FOR 24 HOURS

Walter Richardson of No. 111 Beach street, Revere, tried to give an imitation of Rip Van Winkle, but after sleeping twenty-four hours he was dumped into an ambulance, taken to a hospital and awakened by physicians.

He was very much disgusted when he found that he had been moved from his own bed to a hospital during his slumbers and said:

"Aw, why couldn't you leave me alone."

He was discharged from the hospital this morning and went home to ask his landlady why she didn't let him sleep on, since he had paid for his room.

Richardson went in swimming at Revere on Monday afternoon, and after putting in several hours on the sand and water collecting a sunburn that rivaled a girl who had been two whole weeks at Centre Harbor he went home.

"Gee, I'm sleepy," he told his landlady, and he went up to his room. Tuesday afternoon he was still asleep, and Mrs. Daniel Downs, who runs the house, banged on his door. Later she forced her way in and tried to wake him up, but without avail. Then she got scared and sent for the police.

As far as could be discovered there wasn't anything the matter with him except that he was sleepy.

RUNAWAY HORSES IN A BLACKSMITH SHOP

Two runaway horses attached to a wagon dashed into the blacksmith shop at No. 371 Rutherford avenue, Charlestown, to-day, knocking down Daniel Cavanaugh, sixty-one years old, and badly demolishing the interior of the shop. Cavanaugh is at the Relief Station with bruises about the head and body. He will recover. The police say that the animals are owned by John Winship. They were standing on the avenue when a passing auto frightened them and they dashed into the blacksmith establishment.

'400' SOCIETY WOMEN GAMBLERS MUST ALL APPEAR AT COURT

NARRAGANSETT PIER, Aug. 23.—Society folks were thrown in a panic to-day when they realized that practically all the men and women who were at the Narragansett Club when it was raided for gambling two weeks ago must appear as witnesses next Monday at the hearing of William E. Arnold, vice-president of the club, who is charged with maintaining a gambling house.

"JANE DOES" AND "MARY JONESES" WERE CAUGHT.

Constable John G. Cross, the young man who made the raid and who has carried consternation into the heart of the social world here, began the work of obtaining summonses for witnesses to-day. The hearing of "Doc" Arnold next Monday will be replete with sensation. Then for the first time will the names of many of those who were found in close proximity to the gambling tables when Constable Cross swooped down on the merry club people become known. When Cross took the names on the night of the raid there were a lot of "Mary Joneses" and "Jane Smiths," some even reeling off "Jane Doe" without the quiver of an eyelash.

All Ordered to Court.

The social throng had come to believe that all the trouble started by "that little Johnny Cross" had died out. They were rather rudely awakened at the decision yesterday of Judge Nathan B. Lewis, who heard arguments on the charge that had been made against Arnold after his arrest two weeks ago.

It was expected the court would sustain the demurrer, that this would necessitate the making of a new complaint and an indefinite delay, and that nothing more would be heard of the case, but Judge Lewis refused to throw out the complaint as irregular, and ordered all the parties to the case to be in court on Monday next, when he will fix a date for the trial of Mr. Arnold.

At the Casino and other places last night the decision of Judge Lewis was discussed with animation and there was a flutter of excitement throughout the society colony which continued to-day. There was wide speculation as to the probable number of subpoenas and upon whom they would be served, and gossip had it that numerous men and women would find it necessary suddenly to transfer their social activities to some resort where they would not be within the reach of the Rhode Island law.

Club Has Closed Doors.

That the Narragansett Club has shut up shop for the remainder of the season, if not for all time, was made clear to-day, when all the servants in the elaborate establishment were notified that their services would be required no longer and received the salary due. All the contracts which had been made for supplies were cancelled, and much of the handsome furniture of the place was shipped to New York to be placed in storage.

It seemed as if the order had been issued within an hour of the time Judge Lewis gave his decision, and that it had not been contemplated previously, for so sure were the managers that there would be an indefinite delay of the case that they sent out word quietly on Saturday that the place would be open for the entertainment of visitors in the evening. This word spread quickly, but there were none brave enough to enter the building in the face of the impending court proceedings.

It is reported on excellent authority that the club had sent word a month ago to all the other Summer resorts in the country, in the mountains as well as at the shore, that this place was to be "wide open" to the gambling element throughout August, that there would be no limit to the play and that there was absolute safety from interference.

Men of Wealth at Pier.

This attracted to the Pier many men of wealth who are fond of high play, and a few of them are still here, but as there is no other attraction they probably will not remain long.

The extent of the evidence which Ivins, Cross and their associates have gathered was only revealed this afternoon. It is true that the trained negroes at the club managed to get the faro tables and roulette wheels out of the place, but not until they had been considerably dismantled. The prosecution now has in its possession cards and parts of roulette wheels, which, they say, is more than enough to prove that the Narragansett Club was operated as a public gambling house.

"What was saved by Arnold's servants," said one of the raiders to-day "may be of money value to him, but it would only be of value to us as the basis of a bonfire."

Hunting for McKenna.

It has not been possible yet to serve a warrant on "Tim" McKenna, Arnold's partner in the conduct of the club. Saturday night he was located in the Elm Cottage, a resort of the "not so fashionable," which is under suspicion. An officer went after him, but he got out of a back window and has not been seen at the Pier since. It is not thought that he will come back here this season.

For use at the coming trial a detective agency in New York was engaged last week to look up the history of Arnold and McKenna. This report is now in the hands of the prosecuting attorneys. One statement in it is that McKenna is the man in whose gambling house Reginald Vanderbilt is alleged to have lost $200,000 several years ago. It has always been supposed that this loss occurred in the Canfield establishment on West Forty-Fourth street. It is also charged against McKenna in the report that he was responsible for young Mr. Hostetter losing $40,000 here several seasons ago, when he put in with his yacht for a brief stay.

CHICAGO HARD HIT BY STORM

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Half a million dollars' damage was caused in a few minutes by a storm which broke on the city early to-day. The devastation done by the wind was serious in Lincoln and Jackson parks where many of the largest and finest trees were either blown down or ruined. The Francis T. Simmons, an immense hydraulic dredge being used in filling in new land at Lincoln Park, was torn loose from its mooring and blown out into the lake with two men aboard. After a desperate struggle the men succeeded in mooring the dredge.

The life saving crew made a trip out into the lake during the worst of the storm to rescue Peter Johnson, a lone fisherman in a rowboat, who had been seen by members of the crew when he put out. The Hyde Park police station was struck by lightning. There was a panic among the prisoners. A pole in front of the building was shattered by the same bolt. Many houses were struck and damaged. A score of persons were shocked.

The AMERICAN goes into more homes than all the other evening papers of Boston combined. It is the Quality newspaper.

CATS' COLONY HAS ORCHESTRA

There is a Summer colony of cats at Belmont Hill, Malden. The cats are expets left out of doors by people who have gone away for the Summer and present pets who sneak out when the servant girl opens the back door to gossip with the grocery man.

Belmont Hill is fashionable and the houses have nice gardens and high back fences. The cats congregate every night as the moon rises to talk over their hard luck and to make love in the light of the silvery moon. They also sing. They sing all night and the tune they sing is the one Elektra sings in Strauss's opera. The people in Belmont Hill who are home from their vacations or haven't gone yet are awakened by the feline symphony and throw things at the artists. Nobody has ever seen a wounded cat, but a small boy went around this morning and collected a basketful of alarm clocks, bootjacks, bottles, brickbats, etc., and sold them to a junk dealer for 47 cents.

He says he is going around every morning after this and take up a collection. To make sure that business is good he has buried a dime's worth of catnip in the place where the cats are thickest.

MARY M'DONOUGH WHO CHALLENGES NOTED SWIMMER

MAY McDONOUGH.

M'DONOUGH GIRL READY TO SWIM RIVAL

Mary McDonough, the noted girl swimmer of South Boston, is ready to swim Elaine Golden of New York, either in Boston or New York. Miss McDonough stipulates that the match must not be fixed for any date within three weeks. Giving her reason for this, she declares that she is in training for a swim to Boston Light within the next two weeks. She will attempt to rival or surpass the recent feat of Miss Rose Pitonof, the only woman swimmer to reach the Light.

Miss McDonough challenged Miss Golden some time ago. Miss Golden's acceptance came to the BOSTON AMERICAN through Charles T. Earle, who suggested that if the race were held in New York George C. Tilyou, owner of Steeplechase Park at Coney Island, would offer a handsome trophy.

At her home, No. 542 East Third street, South Boston, to-day, Miss McDonough made the following statement to the AMERICAN:

"I am perfectly willing to swim Miss Golden or any woman swimmer in the world. I'll put no restrictions of any kind on the race, with the single exception that I will not swim in a tank. I've had no experience in swimming in a tank, but Miss Golden has. I think open water swimming would be a better test.

"I'd much prefer to have the match in Boston, as I will attempt to swim to Boston Light within two weeks. I am ready to race Miss Golden a week or two after that. In regard to the trophy, I think as handsome a trophy would be offered in Boston as in New York. However, if New York is decided on, I will race just the same, agreeing only that my traveling expenses are paid."

LAFOLLETTE NOT TO TAKE THE STUMP

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 23.—United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette will not enter the primary campaign in the contest for renomination unless he has to, according to a story from Madison, printed in the Milwaukee Journal, which tells about a conference at the LaFollette farm between the Senator and a number of his adherents, bearing on the primary struggle. The only issue in the campaign is that for representative government, according to Mr. LaFollette.

"A physical ailment has prevented me from enternig the campaign," Senator LaFollette is quoted as saying. "I have just had a long talk with my doctor and he advises me to stay out of the campaign for the present unless it is absolutely necessary for me to enter it. He tells me that before the primary closes I shall be able to make two or three speeches if I have to do so."

WARNER TO LEAVE SENATE IN MARCH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Senator William M. Warner of Missouri announces that he will not be a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate. The announcement was made in a formal statement addressed to the Republicans of Missouri, in which he said his health would not permit him to be a candidate.

The Senator is in his seventy-first year, and for several months has not been in good health. The strain of the tariff session affected him seriously and the heavy work of the session recently ended did not tend to improve his condition. His term will expire March 3 next.

MOTHER DIVES INTO SEA AND SAVES SON

HULL, Aug. 23.—Gardner Gregg, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gregg of Lowell, who have been spending the Summer at Bayside, would have been drowned but from prompt action of his mother.

The strong current had carried him beyond his depth. His mother stepped out of the house in time to see his peril. She rushed down the beach and sprang into the water without removing a garment. Mrs. Gregg is a good swimmer and she swam to where the child went down and plunged down after him, bringing him to the surface, and with considerable effort reached the shore, where after considerable work he was revived.

WILL GUARANTEE COTTON BILLS

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The latest developments in the controversy over American cotton bills of lading is a written intimation to English banks by the American Express Company of its willingness to guarantee the genuineness of documents of lading attached to bills purchased by them.

The committee of Southern banks in the United States has also cabled London banks urging conference on the question.

THREW SELF UNDER TRAIN.

BROCKTON, Aug. 23.—In a state of despondency, it is believed, Harry F. Boomhaur, twenty-eight, threw himself under a train at the railroad station and was instantly killed. He leaves a widow and one small son.

BLAME QUEEN OF SPAIN FOR VATICAN BREAK

MADRID, Aug. 23.—So bitter is the feeling at court between the clericals and Queen Victoria, to whom many Catholics lay the blame for the break with the Vatican, that several of the leading members of the royal household contemplate resigning when the crisis is formally recognized by the withdrawal of the papal nuncio.

This became known to-day as the Queen, with King Alfonso, whose stand is opposed to that of the clericals, is returning from England via Paris. The Queen and her mother, Princess Henry of Battenburg, have been regarded with small favor by the Spanish aristocrats, and their known bias toward the Church of England has increased the strain.

Although the government ostensibly attaches no importance to the Carlist assemblies planned for the Basque provinces on August 28, military precautions against an uprising have been taken in Catalonia and Navarre as well as the provinces on the Bay of Biscay.

The Biscayan clericals have petitioned to be allowed to hold the demonstration originally planned for San Sebastian, but abandoned when the government showed troops in force at Bilbao, October 2 being the new date chosen. The belief is current here that the demonstration will again be prohibited.

Premier Canalejas to-day reached San Sebastian to go over the situation with the local authorities. He was well guarded. While a proposed pro-government demonstration in his honor on arrival had been called off, the anti-clerical leaders called at the Hotel du Palais to leave their cards. Some of them were later called into conference.

BOY DIES SAVING BABE FROM AUTO

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—As seven-year-old Benjamin Goldman of East One Hundred and Fifteenth street darted out of the path of a north-bound touring car, he saw another boy, much smaller than himself, toddling directly in the automobile's path.

He reached the little fellow, pushed him up to the curb, and then tried to dart up after him. But the automobile, less than three feet behind him, struck him, tossed him forward and rolled over him.

A woman, whose identity could not be learned, rushed screaming out into the street. She looked at the body. Then with a shriek of relief, she rushed after the baby boy who had been saved and hurried away with him.

The car was owned and operated by Basil Verlangieri. He called a physician, who said the boy had been killed instantly.

MARRIAGE BANNS FOLLOW TRAGEDY

GREAT BARRINGTON, Aug. 23.—The banns of marriage were announced at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Great Barrington between Miss Elizabeth Corcoran and Joseph Kelly, the Pittsfield telegrapher. Miss Corcoran is the telegraph operator with whom young Gamaliel Bradford became infatuated. Upon her refusal to postpone her marriage to Kelly, Bradford committed suicide at South Framingham. The wedding will take place in Great Barrington the second week in September. Miss Corcoran, who was in a South Framingham hospital with a nervous breakdown following Bradford's deed, has recovered and is seen about the streets here in company with Mr. Kelly.

WARS ON WESTERN CABLE MONOPOLY

RIO JANEIRO, Aug. 23.—Irving B. Dudley, the American ambassador, has made representations to the Brazilian government against projected extensions of the cable monopolies enjoyed here by the Western telegraph company of England. It is felt that if the representations of Mr. Dudley are upheld, competition in the cable service will become possible. The Western telegraph company controls cable lines from the Azores and St. Vincent to all the principal points on the eastern coast of South America from Carupa, Brazil, southward to Buenos Ayres.

ARMY POST PROBES SOLDIER'S DEATH

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23.—An inquiry is being conducted at Fort Greble to determine the cause of the death of Private Lemuel O. Jones, who was found dead at the fort Saturday.

Jones had been examining a loaded rifle, and had just been left alone when the gun was discharged, killing him instantly. It has not been determined whether the shooting was accidental or whether it was a case of suicide. The body was shipped to Pennsylvania.

CAPTAIN TAKEN FOR THEFT FROM VESSEL

ROCKLAND, Me., Aug. 23.—A Bath sea captain, who shipped on the schooner Ella Clifton under the name of Frank Thomas, pleaded guilty in Municipal Court to stealing sails and hawser from that craft and was held for the September Grand Jury in $300. The schooner is owned by Bangor and Boston parties. The warrant was issued upon complaint of Arthur T. Bigelow of Boston.

MOVEMENT TO STOP PRIZE FIGHTS GROWS

Lawyer Henry N. Hurd of Claremont, N. H., one of the influential lawmakers of that State, in discussing the future work of the National League of Lawmakers to stop prizefighting, in a letter to the BOSTON AMERICAN, says:

"It now seems to me that the bulk of the work of the anti-prizefight crusade will lie in the direction of informing and training the public sentiment on the subject, rather than in extensive legislation, although in some jurisdictions the existing police laws may have to be amended."

Others who are against prizefighting discuss the matter in letters from which brief extracts have been taken as follows:

Guy C. Cole, of Columbia, N. H.—I think that the best way to stop prizefighting is for the State Legislature to make laws to prohibit it and then enforce them.

Preston L. Boynton, Liberty, Me.—I can suggest no better way to end prizefighting than for every State in the Union to pass such laws as will prohibit it and educate the public up to the plane of looking at such things as the country looks at bullfights.

R. D. W. Knowlton, West Ashford, Ct.—I shall use all of my influence to stop prizefighting.

D. Wellington Torrey, chairman Board of Selectmen, Deer Isle, Me.—It is indeed patriotic work that the Hearst newspapers are doing toward the suppression of the great evil of prizefighting by arousing the too long dormant feelings of the prominent and influential citizens of the country.

I would suggest that stringent laws be passed by the State Legislatures prohibiting all professional boxing exhibitions and glove contests as the love for true athletics is lost in the mad race for money which is generally spent in loose living, carousing and gambling. Remove the money element and the sport will be saved, but not until then. I would suggest as a penalty for the violation of this law a heavy fine for the promoters and principals, to be followed by jail sentences for a second offence.

A. H. Nickerson, East Corinth, Me.—Each State should forbid prizefighting.

NORTHFIELD WRECK DEAD NUMBER SIX

NORTHFIELD, Vt., Aug. 23.—Only six persons lost their lives in the wreck and fire which followed the head-on collision between two freight trains at Northfield Falls. All of the other members of the train crews have been accounted for. Of the six bodies all but one have been positively identified. The death list is made up as follows: L. W. Dubue, F. W. Berryman, Joseph Lane, W. N. Brudelle and Joseph Laiming. All were trainmen. The remaining body is so badly burned and charged that it is doubtful if it can be identified except through a process of elimination. The official investigation of the wreck has commenced.

CHANCE TO HELP WORTHY CAUSE

The Boston Floating Hospital is an institution which has endeared itself so much to the people of this city that it should have no trouble in obtaining the money it needs for carrying on a work which has helped restore sick babies to health and beyond question has greatly reduced infant mortality in tenement house districts. It needs $10,000 now. The money will be spent for the welfare of humanity and every one who contributes, as the public is asked to do, will lend a hand to as worthy a cause as exists to-day in Boston. The Boston Floating Hospital is the largest institution of its kind in the United States. From June 29 to August 23 this Summer its total of day service rendered to patients amounts to 14,220. Its helpfulness to the children of the poor is incalculable, and the good it has done is beyond measurement with financial figures. The money that is needed is needed quickly. George C. Lee of No. 44 State street is treasurer.

DORCHESTER MAN IS HERO

BRANT ROCK, Aug. 23.—Frank Donahue, a prominent member of the Young Men's Catholic Club of Dorchester, and living on Westville street, that district, proved himself a hero when he pulled a Miss King from the surf after she had gone down twice.

Donahue is stopping at the Summer home of Mrs. Thomas Schiller, here, and as he was preparing to take his daily dip he heard screams and saw Miss King about 200 yards from shore. She had been caught by the undertow and was being carried out to sea. Donahue plunged into the water and soon brought her to shore, despite her struggles which greatly impeded his progress. Miss King suffered a severe nervous shock.

Young Donahue played on both the football and baseball teams of the Dorchester Catholic Club, of which he is a member, and is considered an excellent all around athlete.

Railroad Returns to the Public compared with Railroad Returns to the Stockholder

The first train on what is now the New York Central Lines—and one of the first to run in America—was operated in 1831 from Albany to Schenectady—17 miles.

Today sixty-seven passenger trains and hundreds of freight trains between New York, Boston or Montreal on the east, and Chicago, St. Louis or Cincinnati on the west, serve the public daily over the same bit of road, with proportionately good service over all its 13,000 miles of railway.

In 1831 the equipment consisted of the primitive De Witt Clinton engine and three crude carriages operated over cruder rails and roadbed by two men and a boy.

To serve the public today, the New York Central Lines pay $95,000,000 annually to 135,211 employees, while $75,000,000 more is expended for supplies necessary to maintain a service using 5,500 monster locomotives and 210,118 passenger and freight cars.

Our employees are paid higher wages than ever before—we pay tens of millions of dollars annually for railroad supplies, the prices of which have greatly advanced—and there is probably not a single family in the United States that does not profit by the enormous distribution of money annually made by the New York Central Lines for these purposes.

Yet our 200,000 stockholders and bondholders—men, women and children, whose cost of living has increased as well as yours—are receiving but little more than savings bank rate on their investment.

Nor will the present margin of return provide for extension of facilities without which the New York Central Lines and the public will suffer together.

ARCHBISHOP TALKS TO HIBERNIANS ON GLORY OF THE IRISH

LOWELL, Aug. 23.—Great enthusiasm marked the opening to-day of the biennial convention of the State branch of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. The full quota of delegates was in attendance, and there was a throng of interested spectators. The address of Archbishop William H. O'Connell of Boston was the big feature to-day. The State president, Colonel John J. Rogers, made an interesting report, in which he urged a broad policy in dealing with the Irish question.

In his address the Archbishop declared the order represents the very highest type of Irishism and Catholicism. He deplored the fact that the great glory of the Irish race is not more appreciated by the younger Irish-American element, born in America. He stated that the Irish race has a primacy among the races. "The history of Ireland as written by some," said the Archbishop, "is a conspiracy against the truth because there is so much purposeful misrepresentation."

Attend Solemn High Mass.

The convention opened at 9 a. m. in Associate Hall. The meeting was called to order by Colonel Rogers. The assembled delegates then arched in a body to St. Patrick's Church. Here was gathered a great concourse of people. Solemn high mass was celebrated by Mgr. Arthur J. Teeling, chaplain of Essex County. Archbishop O'Connell, national chaplain, was present. Rev. Fr. J. J. Chittick, chaplain of Norfolk County, was deacon, and Rev. Fr. Michael J. Murphy, chaplain of Middlesex County, subdeacon.

Rev. Philip J. O'Donnell, State chaplain, delivered the sermon. He was followed by Archbishop O'Connell. Both were heard with the closest attention.

In the course of his address Archbishop O'Connell said:

"As one born in this city which owes so much to Irish energy and brains, I have in a certain sense a pleasant duty, of a two-fold character, to welcome those of Lowell, who are here to assist at the opening of the convention and to welcome the representation of the order from all over the State.

Conspiracy Against Truth.

"The Ancient Order of Hibernians represents the very best elements of Irishmen and Catholicism. Unfortunately the great glory of the race is not appreciated by younger men. I refer to the Irish-American element of the race born in this country. These are inclined to minimize what they hear of Ireland's history and what she has done for civilization and learning in the past centuries.

"The Irish race has a primacy among the races no matter what the material, financial or governmental conditions may be.

The history of Ireland, as it is written, by some, is a conspiracy against the truth, because there is so much purposeful misrepresentation. It is not necessary to go into details to prove that statement. I make it with the hope that it may echo through every Irish heart, listening to my words.

"I am not talking of Ireland's glory. That is secure. The thing that interests me is that this order and the Irish race shall keep the heritage of the faith and the religion of Christ left to it by St. Patrick.

"We are passing now through days when we can see what a campaign of misrepresentation and falsehood is being carried on against the church and her rulers. You read the lies day by day, sent broadcast all over the world against the church in Spain, and in France, and in Italy—against the Pope, the bishops and the priests.

"The Irishman has clung to the church because of the traditions of the race and because of the faith within him. The love of the priest and the spirit of loyalty to the church displayed by the Irish race the world over and by the Ancient Order of Hibernians particularly has been and ever will be their salvation."

After the mass the delegates marched back to Associate Hall. This afternoon, after dinner was had, the session was resumed, State President Rogers making his report.

President Rogers paid a high compliment to the women of the auxiliary organization for their work in behalf of Irish history, music and literature. This address was a sort of giving account of his stewardship as the head of the organization for four years, and so well has he been liked that all that he said found immediate approval in the hearts and minds of the members present.

In the course of his address President Rogers said:

Big Gain in Forty-three Years.

"Two years ago at Lynn you left the selection of the next convention city to your State officers, and after due consideration of desirable places the industrious and prosperous city of Lowell laid strongest claims to our attention. It is the home of the first State president of our order, and the city where true, loyal members of the A. O. H. are always to be found, men who are its bone and sinew, who labor constantly for the good and welfare of the cause without hope of reward.

"It was in this city that Hibernianism was cradled in its infancy as a State organization, in 1867, with three divisions numbering less than one hundred members when the first State convention was held. To-day we return after forty-three years of development with over two hundred and sixty divisions, and upwards of twenty-five thousand members.

"Herein this great city of good Hibernians we assemble to plan and legislate for the greater glory of the cause and the betterment of our order. We will first report to you the care and judgment we have tried to exercise while in charge of our affairs.

The Irish Question.

"The question of Ireland and of our relation as an order, the greatest Irish Catholic order in the world, to what is known popularly as the Irish question is a subject which I feel it is my duty to submit to you in this convention.

"Brothers of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, this issue is one calling, first, for treatment of the most delicate and discreet kind, and, second, for consideration along lines of the broadest toleration. Mutual 'give and take' should be the keynote of the attitude of Hibernians in America on all issues bearing on our policy toward the motherland. To quarrel with no honest son of the Irish race because he thinks differently from us on the Irish problem should, I emphatically assert, be the aim and the spirit of every member of our fraternity.

"Splendid progress can be recorded for the Hibernian building movement. Real estate valued at over five hundred thousand dollars is now owned by our organization in this State. Since our last convention, Springfield, Marlboro and Jamaica Plain have completed magnificent structures. All report sound financial standings and several have already burned their mortgages. Many proposed plans for buildings are now well under way. Let the good work go on.

Takes Up Ritual Work.

"The work of our ritual should receive more of our attention and each officer of degree teams should know his part thoroughly to make it more interesting. Our ritual needs no complimentary words from me, but as its beauty and sublimity is frequently marred by the indifferent manner in which it is given, I am urged to call attention to it. No pains should be spared to perfect our ritualistic work. First impressions are always lasting. New members should be encouraged to feel at home. I again urge upon you the desirability of holding open meetings to afford your State and county officers the opportunity of addressing several divisions at once, thus promoting closer fraternal ties among our members.

"Every effort should be made to arouse enthusiasm and to bring in new members. Let us always remember that no Hibernian has fulfilled his mission who does not live up to the principles of the order. Remember that example is louder than precept. Example attracts. Man is naturally imitative. The young and the doubtful are looking for direction; they wish to follow. Hibernians should lead. In order to keep up the financial standing of the division the 'per capita tax' should not be paid out of its treasury. I find that the division who collects this tax from the individual has the best financial status.

Teach Lessons to Young.

"Great care should be exercised about the age of boys entering the juvenile divisions; in some localities the members are too young to derive the best results from a division meeting. The cause we defend and love must be instilled into the hearts and minds of the little ones at home. And no one can arouse and inspire the soul of a child like a mother. Our children must be taught what Ireland was; that the things belonging to her are the most treasured things, and that if we are true to our heritage we will be a credit to our race.

"Within the sacred precincts of home let us encourage the cultivation of Irish music and literature, whose rich treasury can supply all our wants for the development of pure thought and lofty aims among our families. Interest the children in exploits and wonderful heroic deeds of Irish history. Arouse the patriotism of the children with Celtic blood in their veins, and who can foretell what slumbering genius will awake? The shackles may soon be stricken from old Erin. She has had her long night; the inevitable day must come.

Lauds Ladies' Auxiliary.

"We Hibernians should never miss an opportunity of commending the co-operation of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Hibernians. Through the women of our race is accomplished the greater part of the work of Irish history, music and literature. I am pleased to report that the ladies' auxiliary is steadily increasing in strength and in all parts of our State our sisters are doing live, energetic and progressive work. Let us extend to them our best wishes and most earnest support, while refraining from interfering in any way in the conduct of their affairs.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians always stands for filial obedience to our holy mother, the church. No one is eligible to membership who is not a practical Catholic. Our object and purpose is so thoroughly understood by all the clergy that our ancient and honored order is now considered a valuable auxiliary to the church. The spiritual guidance of our chaplains is the blessing she extends to us. Our sincere gratitude is their's.

Military and Insurance.

"The military spirit should be encouraged. Judging from my own experience, splendid results have been attained from divisions having military companies. The young Hibernian is greatly benefited by military discipline. This department will be my special field of work during the next two years, and I trust that the military wing of our organization will be made a great and vital force in our order. Even to-day the hearts of Erin's sons are pulsating with the warm, rich blood of the soldier race.

'He hears the tales of old, old lays,
Of battles fought by ford and hill,
Of ancient Sennachies' martial lays
And a race unconquered still.'

"The subject of insurance should, in my opinion, command our most careful consideration. Our national convention for a number of years has considered the advisably of establishing a national insurance, but finding so many States with well developed insurance departments of their own, it has been found inexpedient. Some States have taken the bold step of making insurance compulsory. Our State insurance, incorporated as the 'Widows' and Orphans' Fund,' is thoroughly sound and reliable in every respect, and is well guarded by the rigid laws of the State.

"Our division, county and State officers should interest themselves in the upbuilding of this department, as I believe insurance strengthens an organization. The protection it affords should attract all thoughtful men who are considerate of those near and dear to them. Your State officers inspected all books and accounts of the insurance officers, and I can assure you that the insurance department is ably and honestly handled.

Irish History in Schools.

"The work of placing Irish history in the schools has been most gratifying. Massachusetts ranks third in the accomplishment of this work in the past two years. History, fellow-Hibernians, has always been regarded as the teacher of men, and the counsellor of wise and learned men. Irish history is more than that. There is no history so embellished with stirring deeds of heroic valor; nor so adorned with brilliant achievements in scholarship and science. Let us live up to our constitution in having a chapter from its glorious pages read at our division meetings.

"It is not for us to keep alive the memory of those who have their place in the imperishable annals of this country's history, but it is for us to rescue from oblivion the men that lived and worked and wrought in the upbuilding and maintenance of this nation; and to see to it that the indifference is done away with of those history writers who ignore in their researches of the past, the splendid part played by the pioneer Irish and their sons.

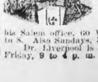

"To repair the injustice done us and the cruel omissions of history is a noble mission and as patriotic as any that ever moved men to deeds of valor and sacrifice. Here is a fertile field of opportunity for the brothers who have university educations or its equivalent. Papers prepared on history topics and lectures frequently given at division meetings would do untold good.

Pledges Life to Work.

"Brothers, I thank you for the honors accorded me, and I wish to thank my fellow-officers for their consideration and assistance. To the rank and file of our membership throughout the State I want to express my deep feeling of appreciation and gratitude which I shall ever hold for the loyal support and strength they gave to me during my term of office.

"I sincerely trust that the sphere of usefulness and power of our beloved order will be widened and deepened as time goes on; and as I step down from the exalted position in which you have placed me, I want to assure my brothers that my aim through life shall be to assist in the work of our organization. My fondest aspiration will be to help with all the strength I can exert my successors who will have charge of these affairs.

"It is a source of great gratification to me in surrendering my trust to say that the record made during my official leadership may justly be viewed with pride and pleasure and that it has met with your approval and support."

$60,000 DRAPER SHAFT IN MILFORD

MILFORD, Aug. 23.—Mrs. William F. Draper of Hopedale has announced that she is going to present to the town of Milford a statue of her late husband, General William F. Draper, which will cost $60,000 and stand in Congregational Park, opposite the site of the proposed new postoffice building. The late General Draper was United States Ambassador to Italy and a brother of Governor Draper.

EIGHT SAVED FROM FLAMES IN WEST END

An aged couple, rendered helpless by the acrid smoke, were carried to safety down a burning stairway, and six other persons, whose lives were imperilled, were rescued through the heroic efforts of policemen and others during a fire in the two-story brick dwelling at No. 243 Chambers street, West End, early to-day. All of the rescued escaped narrowly. They were slowly being overcome by smoke while asleep, and if the discovery of the fire had been later all might have been burned to death.

Several times the flames threatened to spread to the adjoining dwellings, and the occupants of several houses in the immediate vicinity fled to the street in their night clothing. The blaze caused a damage of $1,500.

The fire had gained great headway before it was discovered and the rescuers found considerable difficulty in getting the inmates safely out of the building. All of the rescued were affected by the dense smoke, and several were in a semi-conscious condition. First aid was administered to each upon reaching the open air, however, and all soon revived.

A passing citizen saw the fire through the basement windows. He attracted the attention of patrolman J. D. McDonald of the Joy street station, and together they forced the front door.

The interior of the house was filled with dense smoke, and the men found difficulty in breathing. The flames had reached the first floor and were rapidly eating their way towards the stairway. McDonald rushed to the second floor and kicking and pounding on the doors awoke Isaac Seligman, his wife and his three daughters, all of whom were sound asleep.

The policeman arrived none too soon, as the members of the Seligman fairly were yielding to the smoke. McDonald succeeded in getting them to the stairway and they reached the street in safety.

John Rich and his wife, Bessie, an aged couple, who with their grandson, occupied the apartment on the first floor, were also asleep. They were helpless from the effects of the smoke. They were carried from the building by several citizens who had broken into their apartments, just as the flames reached the stairway. The grandson was also assisted to the street.

NEW BEDFORD POLICE CHECK MILL ATTACK

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 23.—What the police believe was a concerted attack on the Sharp mill, where strikebreakers are working, was prevented today, when forty policemen with their clubs drove off half a hundred men who were threatening the strikebreakers. Strikebreakers working at the mill, which is the only building job on which work has been resumed, say they were intimidated by the strikers. The police have taken extra precautions in guarding the mill since the near clash.

The trouble started shortly after 6 o'clock this morning when Night Watchman Horton distinguished figures of men near the Sharp mill. He armed himself with his big horse pistol, which has been nicknamed the "gatling gun."

Thinking the figures were drawing closer in the shrubbery, Horton telephoned the central police station, and then blew his whistle for help. Forty patrolmen responded in charge of Lieutenants McVay and Foley. They were hurriedly assembled from other places which were under extra patrol.

The Attack "Tipped Off."

The officers scattered around the mill, working along Hemlock and Rivet streets and Bolton road. At least fifty men were run out and scattered.

The police were notified last night by Superintendent George McClellan, of the Pinkerville Company, that Henry H. Ricketson, stockman for the firm, had been tipped off that the strikers planned to attack the Sharp mill to-day. The police officers were told to be in readiness for no unexpected call. This accounted for the speed with which the patrolmen were assembled today.

Night Watchman Horton has two Newfoundland dogs which he is keeping with him on his night duty. The force of policemen guarding the Sharp mill will remain on duty to-night.

Another Striker Convicted.

The second conviction in connection with the big strike occurred to-day in the Third District Court when Perinotte Guiseppe, an Italian bag carrier, was sentenced to sixty days in the House of Correction for assaulting Jeremiah Shaughnessey, foreman of the Union Street Railway. Guiseppe appealed and was held in $200.

According to the evidence Shaughnessey was waiting at the New Bedford railroad station for a gang of laborers to work on the tracks for his company. A gang of 200 Italians, mostly bag carriers, who have left their work, assembled there. The strikers believing that the new arrivals were to work on the railway company's car barn, which is in the course of construction, started to assail Shaughnessey. It is alleged that Guiseppe struck Shaughnessey in the face.

A large crowd followed the patrol to the station and many stones were thrown at the police. They were finally dispersed.

MURRAY OPENS CAMPAIGN TO-NIGHT

Councilor William F. Murray, who aspires to the seat of Congressman Keliher, will begin his campaign to-night. His opening rallies will be in Ward 9, where Keliher lives. His later meetings will be held on Harrison avenue, at Oneida street and East Dedham street at Compton and Emerald streets, and at Shawmut avenue and Waltham streets. If the weather is unfavorable the meetings will be held to-morrow night, beginning at 7:30. Mr. Murray will continue his speaking campaign every night during the five weeks that remain before the primary election on September 27.

DOG CATCHERS' PAY AGAIN HELD UP

Councilman James Curley was the medium by which the wages of the official dog-catchers of Boston, Julian Codman of Hamilton, Huntington Smith of Dedham and Sullivan of Milton City, were again held up at the meeting of the City Council. Between May 1 and June 20 the board claims to have caught 924 dogs, which would give each member an average of 308 dogs.

Curley wanted to know whether or not the City Council had the right to vote money for work accomplished by the dog-catchers when they had no right to do the work. The petition for reimbursement was put over until the next meeting.

TO CURE DANDRUFF

A Very Simple Thing To Do If You Do It Right.

Do you know that dandruff can be quickly cured by simply washing the hair and scalp with Birt's Head Wash? Use it two or three times a week, every spot of dandruff, scalp will be clean, smooth and pink, with not a trace of scales or dandruff. Your hair will take on new life, and become soft and glossy. Perhaps you have heretofore tried the plan of frequent washing with common soap, but try again with Birt's Head Wash and see the difference. The reason is that ordinary soaps and shampoos contain an excess of alkali, which hurts the scalp more than it helps it. Birt's Head Wash is made of refined soap, cocoanut oil, whites of eggs, glycerin and salicylic acid. At drug and dept. stores. 25c and 50c.

MRS. FERNALD, STRANGELY LOST FROM HER HOME

MRS. FRANK L. FERNALD

WOMAN MISSING WITH CHILDREN

The strange disappearance of Mrs. Frank L. Fernald with her two little daughters, three and four years of age, has caused her husband and her mother much mental anguish, for fear some accident has befallen her and the children.

Mrs. Fernald had been living with her mother at No. 734 Harrison avenue since her marriage. She left the house last Thursday with the children and when asked where she was going replied:

"I'm going to keep house with my husband."

Mrs. Fernald went to the boarding house of her husband, remained there over night and left there on Friday. That is the last any of her friends have seen of her. The police have been asked to help find her.

RAT STEALS CATCH OF FISHERMAN

ONSET, Aug. 23.—William Roode had hard luck while fishing off the steamboat wharf. He is willing to swear out an affidavit, too.

Roode had some small bait on his line and it was not long before a fine specimen of bluefish bit. With pride the happy man of bluefish bit. Roode pulled and the bluefish was his reward. With pride the fisherman laid the fish on the wharf and prepared to cast again when he heard a noise in back of him and turned around just in time to see a large wharf rat making away with the bluefish in its mouth. That was enough for Roode. He gathered in his line and went home.

ANCIENTS WILL BE CANADIAN'S HOSTS

Unlimited power to entertain the Forty-third Canadian Regiment from Ottawa, the Duke of Connaught's own, has been vested the commissioned officers of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. WOMAN HAS SAUGUS OFFICER REMOVED

The sworn statement of a woman, charging him with neglect of duty has resulted in the removal of Patrolman John H. Williams from the Saugus police force by the selectmen at a hearing in Saugus.

The complainant was Mrs. Catherine Marlborough, who declared that Williams was present at a carousal in a hotel on the night of July 23, and that he made no efforts to quell the disorder. She declared that during the early morning hours several shots were fired.

Williams will probably demand a public hearing.

Odd Items

Heart Sewed Up and Will Live.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—After one of the most remarkable operations in the history of the surgery, Samuel Harmon, a seventy-year-old waiter, to-day had good prospects of living at Gouverneur Hospital. Twelve stitches were taken in his heart, which was cut open for an inch by a man who objected to the way Harmon served soup. Only six times before has such an operation been attempted. Harmon was operated on by Dr. John F. Erdman. After he had been sewed up the patient fell asleep with a temperature of only 99, and the doctors predicted his recovery.

"Never Again," Latest Pledge.

BAYONNE, N. J., Aug. 23.—Perhaps the shortest temperance pledge on record was that administered by Recorder Mara to Thomas Collins, who had been arrested for being drunk. Collins said he was ready to swear off. "Then hold up your right hand," snapped the recorder. "Now repeat after me. 'Never again!' 'Never again!' boomed forth from his dry throat.

Hardware Diet Is Fatal.

CAIRO, Ill., Aug. 23.—When physicians in a Cairo hospital operated for appendicitis on Frank W. Wilson they took out the following articles: One shoe button, one hatpin, three keys, one lead pencil, one knife buckle, one tin toy pistol, one thermometer, four nails and a needle. Wilson died.

Collar Strangles Man in Buggy.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 23.—George W. Burlinson, former deputy commissioner of jurors of Westchester County, was found dead in a surrey in the rear of Joseph Smith's blacksmith shop. Poodle Adopts a Kitten.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Aug. 23.—A French poodle belonging to Mrs. Edward K. Leach of No. 641 Bloomfield avenue, has adopted a Maltese kitten. She is also caring for three puppies born a week ago.

DEMOCRATS IN SESSION; TALK OF SITUATION

Called to set a date for the State convention and to select convention officials, Democratic State committeemen, in session at the Quincy House to-day are discussing the gubernatorial situation confronting the party, with the formal business of the meeting practically a side issue.

The refusal of James H. Vahey to stand aside when about every member of the State committee wishes him to do so, the receptive mood of Congressman Eugene N. Foss, the willingness of Mayor Fitzgerald to accept a nomination if the call of his party is loud enough and the likelihood that the convention will be stampeded for Charles S. Hamlin, combined to give the leaders of the State Democracy plenty to talk about.

May Risk Friday "Hoodoo"

The convention will be held in Faneuil Hall, and it looks as if Friday, October 7, would be the date selected. Friday has been tabooed by Democrats in the past as a convention day, but this year no other day can be selected if the Democrats desire to first see what the Republicans do, as the Republicans meet in Symphony Hall on Thursday the 6th, and Saturday, the 8th, is the last day for filing papers of nomination.

There is the possibility, in order to secure a further snubbing of the convention with the hoodoo of a Friday, that the convention may be called for the same day as that of the Republicans.

Charles S. Hamlin is on the cards for chairman of the convention with John H. Thayer to write the platform. Four members-at-large for the committee on resolutions are chosen at the meeting to-day.

Hamlin Worries Vahey Men.

The selection of Hamlin as chairman of the convention while not distasteful to the Vahey supporters is not especially pleasing. The Vahey men recall how the convention last year was almost stampeded for Hamlin. Thus this year the Vahey supporters would much prefer to have Charles S. Hamlin in some other place in the convention than in the chair of the presiding officer.

There will be a total of 1105 delegates in the convention and of this number Boston will furnish over one-fifth, 236. These 236 will be cast as a unit, Vahey man. Boston's vote will be cast as a unit. In the Quincy House meeting to-day it is being made pretty clear that Boston does not favor Vahey.

An air of the greatest hopefulness pervades the ranks of the Democratic leaders, both that Gov. Draper can be defeated and that the tangle surrounding their own nomination will be straightened out before the convention and that no sort of a steam roller will be used in the smoothing out process.

GAYNOR IS CALM DURING FIRE SCARE

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 23.—A fire scare to-day caused some excitement at St. Mary's Hospital, where Mayor William J. Gaynor of New York is recovering from the bullet wound inflicted by James J. Gallagher two weeks ago to-day. A blaze was discovered at No. 325 Willow avenue, near the hospital. Three thousand people quickly gathered and the police reserves were called out. The fire was soon out. Mr. Gaynor asked about the fire casually, but did not seem alarmed. His condition was so improved to-day that the doctors announced he could again be allowed to walk about the room a bit. The Mayor remains cheerful and says his only cause for complaint is lack of sufficient food.

JAILED FOR "LOAN" FROM MRS. WILCOX

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Aug. 23.—Arthur G. Clark, a noted confidence man, was arrested here to-day on complaint of Ella Wheeler Wilcox. He called at her handsome summer home, The Bungalow, on Short Beach, and introduced himself as a magazine publisher. He succeeded in negotiating a loan after representing that he had lost his pocketbook. After the departure Mrs. Wilcox became suspicious and telephoned to the New Haven detective bureau. The man was arrested in the apartments at the New Haven House, the leading hotel of this city.

HUSBAND, 18, MUST HELP SUPPORT BRIDE

Sarah Ilsook, the seventeen-year-old bride of Samuel Ilsook, who was married two days after her marriage by City Clerk Attwill of Lynn on August 18, appeared in the Lynn police court to-day and charged her husband with non-support. Ilsook, who is eighteen, was arrested on the girl's complaint that he had been spirited away from her by his parents, who opposed the match. Judge Lummus ordered the young man to pay $3.50 a week toward the support of the young wife.

BOY GOING DOWN FOR LAST TIME IS SAVED

Joseph Curtis, a boatman employed at Fisherman's beach, Swampscott, is to-day considered a hero for his rescue of 10-year-old Oliver Pearson from drowning yesterday. The lad fell from a raft and was going down for the last time in about twelve feet of water when Curtis, who was on the float ashore, swam to the rescue from which he plunged and brought the boy to the surface.

HOW TO FIND OUT

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling usually indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. Too frequent desire to urinate, scanty supply, pain or dull ache in the back, should also convince you that the kidneys or bladder are out of order.

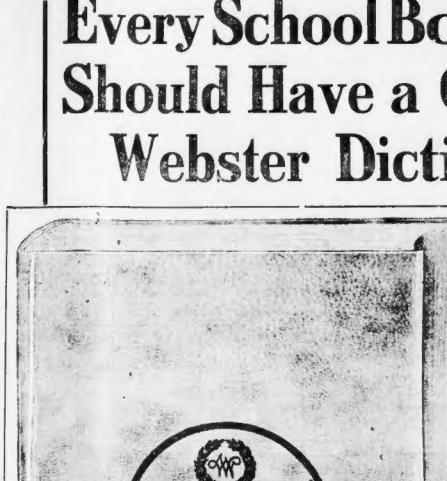

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, fulfils almost every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold urine, and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate.

The mild, pleasant and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful results in the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine, you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the Boston Daily American. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

BEALS WRIGHT IN SEMI-FINAL WITH WHITNEY

NEWPORT CASINO, Aug. 23.—The last lap of the All-Comers' National Tennis tournament starts to-day with Beals C. Wright against E. H. Whitney, and T. C. Bundy playing F. C. Colston. The winners of each of these matches will clash to-morrow to decide who shall meet the champion, Larned, in the finals.

The Wright-Whitney match is the one that is attracting the most attention from the large gallery as both of these crack tennis players are from Boston and members of the Longwood C. C. It is expected that Wright will win the match in straight sets from his clubmate. The match between Bundy and Colston is conceded to Bundy on the form that he has been showing throughout the tournament.

The big upset of the week came yesterday, when Beals C. Wright easily defeated Maurice E. McLoughlin of the Pacific coast delegation. Many of the gallery had been backing McLaughlin to take the measure of the Boston crack. The experts, however, who have watched Wright's play throughout the tournament, were in favor of the Boston man for capturing the high honors, as was stated in yesterday's AMERICAN.

Wright is confident of his ability to win both to-day and to-morrow and of meeting Larned in the final round. It is expected that the ex-champion will fine little difficulty in defeating his opponents of to-day and to-morrow unless he has a decided reversal of form.

If it come about that Wright and Larned are the two to meet in the final round to decide the championship title a battle royal is in store for the gallery with these two knights of the racquet, fighting it out for the premier honors. It is hinted around the club house that there is not another man in the country whom Beals Wright would rather defeat than the present title holder. It is stated that at the Longwood tennis tournament that Larned coached McLoughlin so as to fit him to defeat Wright which he did at the time. When Wright became aware of this fact he put upon himself the task of turning the tables on McLoughlin when they met in the national championships here so that he could challenge Larned.

The ideal weather conditions brought out a large gallery of society people who were on hand early to root for their favorites. With McLoughlin out of the way the coast delegation is now resting their hopes on T. C. Bundy of Los Angeles to get into the final round.

RED SOX AFTER SECOND GAME FROM BROWNS

BATTING ORDER.

ST. LOUIS.	BOSTON.
Truesdale, 2b.	Hooper, r.f.
Stone l.f.	Purtell, 3b.
Schweitzer, r.f.	Speaker, c.f.
Newman, 1b.	Stahl, 1b.
Griggs, 3b.	Lewis, l.f.
Hoffman, c.f.	Wagner, s.s.
Wallace, s.s.	Engle, 2b.
Killifer, c.	Carrigan, c.
Ray, p.	Hall, p.

The Red Sox are due to bury the Browns deeper than they did yesterday in the second encounter up at the Back Bay execution grounds this afternoon, so all those who would like to be in at the ceremony should procure their admissions early and be on hand at the appointed hour.

This thing just has to be done. The Red Sox are closely pursued by the Detroit Tigers and the New York Highlanders, making it a three-cornered fight for the second place in the league, and its some mark of esteem to finish the season even in the second berth, as no team can touch the Athletics in a class by themselves.

The Browns don't mind being slayed by the Red Sox. They are solid in last place in the league and can't get out with a jimmy, so it matters not how many times they are put under the sod. In fact, if they were asked which team they would rather see at the top of the race they would say Red Sox in loud acclaim.

The Browns have played their best card in the pitching line, with Joe Lake getting his yesterday, so whoever they trot out is due to receive a lacing. When Old Barney Pelty comes along maybe he will throw a scare into the home camp, as he is a wise old scamp for a pitcher.

The race situation is the same as yesterday, and if the Red Sox should happen to slip a cog and the Tigers put another one over on the Yanks then the second spot will be tied up. The conditions are all in favor of the Red Sox getting a little better hold on the spot as the Yanks are due to bite a hole in the Tigers.

HOUCK BATTLES LEWIS TONIGHT AT TRIPLE A.

Those two rival mitt merchants, Harry Lewis and Leo Houck, both from the Penn State, are here awaiting the bell at the Armory A. A. to-night to send them on their twelve-round journey for the big decision.

It's the opening night at the big biff club, and the members who are not down at the seashore will get to the ringside to see these hard punchers go to it.

Houck is really the puncher. He hasn't the head that the crafty Lewis has perched on his shoulders.

Lewis claims that he is the welterweight champion, and the only ones who dispute him are Mike Twin Sullivan and Jimmy Gardner. Lewis is the one boy who can claim a win over the Cambridge stepper of the trio.

There is more hot rivalry between the pair than if it was an International match, as their friends down around Philly are awaiting to hear of the outcome, knowing that on this occasion they can show their merits.

Lewis is one of the classiest performers in the game and is just starting his Winter campaign after his trip abroad. There will be three six-round prelims on the card.

GREAT COLTS RACE TODAY IN MATRON STAKE

After a long departure of the light harness horse, New York will welcome the Grand Circuit trotters and pacers to-day, for a week's racing at the Empire track, Jerome and Yonkers avenues, under the auspices of the Trotting Horse Breeders' Club. It should be one of the greatest gatherings of the first flight of campaigners that Father Knickerbocker has ever known within his precincts.

A futurity race that should rank with the best trotting events that the turf has known for 3-year-olds, is the feature of the opening day, the Matron Stake, value $15,000, in which the pick of the country, among the colts and fillies, will be enlisted when the call is made.

While Native Belle 2:07¾, is an overwhelming favorite, the futurity event of to-day should provide a splendid race, for Colorado E, 2:12¼, is ripe for the fray, and the chances of Emily Ellen, Eva Bellini, Anvil and Eva Tanguay are strictly to be reckoned with.

The 2:12 pace has a large field, with no positive choice, and the first division of the Speedway Stakes for 2:16 trotters, to wagon, and driven by amateurs, looks to be rather at the mercy of Sadie Maid, unless a change is made in the list at the eleventh hour.

HARVEY OUTCLASSES PATSY BRANNIGAN

ALBANY, Aug. 23.—Charlie Harvey of Chicago and Patsy Brannigan of Pittsburg fought a 10-round draw here, and while there was no decision, those who saw it agreed that Harvey had everything all his own way.

It took Harvey some time, however, to get the measure of Brannigan, who forced the boxing the first few rounds. But once Harvey had found a soft place where he wanted to punch, he beat Brannigan to it every time and outpointed him. The men fought at bantamweights and there was some clever work done.

ROCCO PUTS EGAN OUT IN THIRD ROUND

GLOUCESTER, Aug 23. The first bouts in this city in five years were boxed in the Dewey Theatre under the management of Al Limont of Boston. About 500 persons attended.

There were four bouts, in two of which there were knockouts.

Pat Rocco of Boston and Kid Egan of South Boston met in the fourth bout. Rocco put Egan away in the third round.

NEW LONDON PLAYER KEEPS ROQUE TITLE

NORWICH, Ct., Aug. 23. — Harold Bosworth of New London again won the national championship at roque at the tournament of the national association here. Eddie Clark of Springfield, Mass., had tied Bosworth for first place in the first division, and in playing off the tie it was necessary to win three out of five games. Bosworth won the first, third and fifth games and won the title.

The Doves play their second game with the Cubs and hope to make a run to-day. The way the sure pennant winners in the National League are romping along would give the impression that they are simply adding on a few extra games at the expense of the Doves, who need them more than the Cubs to get out of last place.

UHLAN WILL RACE THE HARVESTER FOR TITLE NEXT YEAR

Ain't It Funny What a Difference a Few Hours Make? — By Tad

UHLAN TO RACE HARVESTER FOR TROTTING TITLE

A race between Uhlan, 1:58¾, and The Harvester, 2:02, seems assured, but to the regret of horsemen the wide world over, not until next year. That 's the situation as it stands to-day.

C. K. G. Billings, the owner of Uhlan, when approached as to a match race said: "I will be pleased to arrange a race between Uhlan and The Harvester, but not this season. The training of Uhlan has been arranged strictly for flights against time, and he has not been prepared after the manner of those horses who are making a season's racing campaign.

"In 1911 I will be very pleased to match Uhlan against The Harvester, but it must be understood the race to be only for a cup, as I never race for a stake or wager. The training of a horse for trials against time is a very different matter from the training necessitated for a season's campaign. But in 1911 you will find me prepared to make a match with The Harvester."

There is little question but what August Uihleen, the Milwaukee owner, would match the great son of Walnut Hall against Uhlan, but the race must now be deferred until next year. The horsemen of the country must wait, but still, if all goes well, we shall see in 1911 the greatest trotting race between Uhlan and The Harvester the world has ever known.

PRINCE HAMPTON ANNEXES PURSE

The victory of A. Henry Higginson's Prince Hampton in the Hunters' Handicap Steeplechase at Saratoga proved very popular in Boston to-day among the friends of Boston's prominent amateur sportsmen.

Prince Hampton is a six-year-old bay fencer by Sandringham, dam Dolly Hampton, and was purchased by Mr. Higginson upon the dispersal of the steeplechase string of John W. Colt.

The race at Saratoga was an easy one for the Boston horse, and Johnny Lynch turned in a faultless ride. To the first jumps O. K. carried Prince Hampton well, but was no match for the winner after the Liverpool. The other starters were Indiola and Sam Ball.

Prince Hampton was a strong favorite, selling straight 3 to 5 at the opening, 9 to 10 high and 1 to 3 close.

The Boston steeplechaser is a very clean fencer, seems to be in prime form, and with any run of luck he should annex a number of steeplechase stakes for Mr. Higginson.

AVIATORS RACE SEVEN MILES TO DEAD HEAT

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—A thrilled crowd at the Mineola aero course watched the exciting spectacle of a seven-mile race between aeroplanes—the first contest of the kind ever held in America.

Seven times around the course, Captain Thomas S. Baldwin in his "Red Devil" and Charles K. Hamilton in his Curtiss biplane, flew at a speed which varied from 30 to 60 miles an hour. And when they whirred past the spectators, the two airmen were so close together that no decision as to the victor was made.

The Baldwin machine was known to be the speedier, but Hamilton handled his plane with such remarkable skill, especially at the turns, that he managed to run his rival neck and neck throughout hte contest. The machines ascended a few minutes apart and circled for a time, "jockeying" for an even start. As they whizzed away at last, past the grandstand, they were side by side and a rousing cheer followed them down the first quarter-mile.

At the first turn, Hamilton's skill and rare judgment became manifest. Baldwin had gone ahead in the clear stretch, but now the young aeronaut swung his machine so deftly in a perfect turn that his rival's gain was lost.

This exchange of advantage was kept up throughout the race, Baldwin always gaining in the straight away and losing on the turns.

At the beginning of the fifth lap both machines were flying low, when suddenly Hamilton elevated his front control and shot his plane fully 300 feet above Baldwin's. The latter followed the example, and in front of the grand stand both were running even. Then suddenly and almost simultaneously they dived down again and sped away on the low level.

DANNY MURPHY CAN'T HIT CY'S CURVES

Would you not expect that a batter of the calibre of Dan Murphy would say that the hardest man for him to hit was a premier like Russ Ford or some of these latter-day stars who have achieved a great reputation.

Well, Dan doesn't say anything of the sort. Danny says that the pitcher who has shown the most improvement this year over previous years is none other than that veteran, Old Cy Young. Dan says that the pride of Paoli, O., the man who has chalked 500 wins against his name and who has been twirling for twenty-one years, is the man who shows the greatest promise this season. Does not that give precedent a rattling of the slatwork and make youth take a run for the wildwood?

"Old Cy," says Danny, "is the hardest pitcher in the land for me to tackle right now, and I think that he has something on about all of them as it is. Once he was all speed, and couldn't he burn 'em over? Now he is pitching with a reduced speed, but he is using curves, a spitter, and his old noddle, which is filled with the knowledge of the weaknesses of batters from twenty-two years experience. They have had old Cy canned for three or four years, but I guess that the old socks is just as good as any of them right now. He hasn't lost a game since he won that five hundredth victory down at Washington, and he is with a second division club, too. All the other fellows have a tough time winning, but the old man seems to pick 'em out just as good as ever. He looks better to me than a carful of some of this young blood. I'm sticking for old Cy.

OLD CY YOUNG SAYS HE WON'T QUIT BALL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—A story was in circulation here that Cy Young had notified the Cleveland management that this would be his last year in baseball. When Cy was asked about it he registered an emphatic denial.

"Quit the game, well I guess not," said he. "I am better now than I have been in years, so why should I quit? No, sir, I'll stick right with them as long as I can, for what would I do out of baseball. I'd be awfully lonesome, and you know this is a healthy game. I'll not quit until I have to, you can bet on that."

The AMERICAN goes into more homes than all the other evening papers of Boston combined. It is the Quality newspaper.

JEFFRIES'S DOINGS NO GOOD AS ITEM OF NEWS

By TAD.

Quite a true song that was entitled "Ain't It Funny What a Difference a Few Hours Make?"

What do you hear of Jeffries now? Are you particularly interested in just what he thinks, says or does?

Two months ago to-day the great Jeffries was at Moana Springs, in Reno, preparing for his contest with Jack Johnson. Around Jeffries were trainers galore, photographers by the score, and over 200 writers. Every big paper in the country had scribes there, and even Paris sent over one to do the big quarrel.

The people wanted to know what time Mr. Jeffries hit the hay, what time he arose, what he had for breakfast, what he said to so and so, how he looked. Just two months ago to-day—that was when the world waited breathlessly for news of the giant from Los Angeles.

He was followed along the roads, he was watched by hundreds as he worked and questioned by hundreds as he was rubbed down.

To-day Jim Jeffries is in Los Angeles probably fishing or taking a walk. We don't care so much now just what Mr. Jeffries is doing. He lost his big fight and has gone home to his fishing tackle and his dogs. Only a few hours ago we were tumbling over one another for a look at him.

* * *

Benny Selig of Frisco, who managed Joe Gans in most of the latter's battles on the Coast, thinks that one of the most gentlemanly fighters in the world passed away in Baltimore.

Gans Real Fighter.

"He was a real fighter and a real gentleman," said Selig in an interview. "Joe didn't know how old he was, really. He figured to the white people that he was about thirty-five, but he told me in Frisco when he was out there that home in the big book the date of his birth was marked 1870, which made him forty years of age. His real name was Gamb. He took the other, as it sounded better to him and was more easily pronounced.

"He must have been forty at least, as I know he left a son sixteen years old in Baltimore, and he tells me that he was married at twenty-three.

"Faking never helped any fighter," moralized Benny. "Most of them quit the game as bums. Now, Gans never wanted to take part in any prearranged contest, but, for the most part, he couldn't help himself. It would not be told him what he would do until he was in the ring. Then he would be told that his opponent was to stay so many rounds. Gans would protest but the reply would be that the money was all tied up. Out of all the fights he always got the worst of it when it came to money.

"Take the fight with Britt (the first one). I don't know whether there was anything wrong, but I do know that all Joe Gans ever received personally was $5,000. By rights he should have had $50,000.

Said He Could Whip Twin.

"When he came to me I told him there was nothing in faking, and he agreed. After that he was straight as a string, although he had all sorts of offers to lay down. Why, when he was training in Goldfield big propositions were made to him to throw the match to Nelson.

"Long before he was away from Herford he tried to break the contract. He asked Alvie King to take charge of him in New York, and when they made the deal a judge ruled that Herford had an ironclad contract.

"It was when Gans fought Mike Twin Sullivan in Baltimore that he worked the trick to get free of Herford. The fight was a draw, and Gans made a miserable showing. When Herford kicked he said he had done the best he could, and that he was 'all in.' The upshot of it was that Herford took the money for the fight and gave Gans back his liberty. Straightway he wired me for a match in San Francisco.

"I asked him if he could whip Sullivan, and he told me that he could almost pick the round.

"'There may be some lightweights that I can't beat, but I can whip Mike Twin without any doubt,' was his reply, and he proved it.

Easy Boxer to Manage.

"And here's something more that the world never knew. You remember the fight between Gans and Britt at the baseball grounds, and the long delay? Well, everybody thought that it was because Gans wanted to get hold of his money. That wasn't the reason. The Britts insisted that we split the purse with them. Our original contract for Gans called for 85 per cent. of the house, divided 60 per cent. to the winner and 40 to the loser, with a $15,000 guarantee for Gans. Britt knew he would lose, and wanted half the money. Finally we had to give it to him.

"There was never a man easier to manage than Gans. He never wanted to know the details of a match or to see the statement of the receipts after a bout. He would fight at any weight and under any conditions."

Gans, according to Selig, could not have left an estate that was worth much. In spite of the money that he made in the last few years, he had saved up but little. The hotel property is heavily mortgaged, and so are the two residences he owned in Baltimore.

"Mrs. Gans will be lucky," remarked Benny, "if she has $5,000 after the estate is settled up."

Starting with the Goldfield fight, Gans made considerable money, as it was his custom to bet the loser's end of the purse on himself. In Goldfield his share was $11,000 and what he won. Then he had twenty weeks on the road at $1,000 a week.

STRAIGHT TIPS FOR SPORT FANS

S'HELP ME, IT'S TRUE. I GOT A letter to-day from a guy who asked me a question without using the rubber-stamped "to settle a bet." Here's a straight tip to the info seekers who have a penchant for telling me that they are there risking the coin—that prelude about the wager stuff is as agreeable as prunes are to the boarder. Now, on the level, if you had been eating corned beef and cabbage every day for a year, wouldn't you relish pigs' knuckles. I hope the members of the frat I'm referring to get hep.

Straight Tips: Will you be so kind as to inform me through your column how long Bush, shortstop of the Detroit team, has been playing baseball, and what teams he has been with while playing professional ball?
H. L. J.

He has been with the Tigers three seasons. He joined the club late in 1908. He went from the Indianapolis club, his release costing $5,500.

Straight Tips: Please tell me the best record made by Walker of South Africa in 100 yards.
Providence. JERRY JEROME, JR.

In his own country he is credited with doing 9 2-5 seconds, but officially 9 4-5 seconds is his time.

Straight Tips—Noting your reply to J. F. D., I'd like to put the question a little different, as I have always had the impression that the players were under contract for at least a year subject to the ten days' notice clause, and that if he signed for say $2,400 per year that the sum was divided into as many small parts as there were playing months. Of course, he got paid monthly, but on a yearly basis. This is the idea, I think, J. F. D. intended to convey.
W. F. O'CONNELL.

Straight Tips: Did Tommy Burns ever knock out Bill Lang? If so, how many rounds?
Salem. T. GARDNER.

Yes, in six rounds.

Straight Tips: Was Bob Fitzsimmons a heavyweight when he fought Corbett? Was he ever a heavyweight, and what is the heavyweight limit?
Pittsfield, Mass. CONSTANT READER.

Fitzsimmons weighed 160; Corbett 185. There is no limit for heavyweights. The middleweights' limit is 158 pounds.

PICK SPEAKER FOR ALL-AMERICA TEAM

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 23.—It became known here to-day that Tex Rickard of Nevada is the man who is back of the scheme to take two all-American baseball teams on a tour of this country just as soon as the regular season is ended.

A club composed of National League players will play against a club composed of American League men. The American Leaguers are: Chase of New York, first base; Lajoie of Cleveland, second base; Wallace of St. Louis, shortstop; Lord of Chicago, third base; Speaker of Boston, Cobb and Crawford of Detroit, outfielders; Stanage of Detroit and Carrigan of Boston, catchers; Ford of New York, Walsh of Chicago and Donovan of Detroit, pitchers.

NOTED RUNNERS TO MEET IN MARATHON

Two great long-distance foot races between the foremost professionals in the world are scheduled to be run in this vicinity within the next ten days. Friday at the Canobie Lake track there will be an international marathon race over the regulation distance of 25 miles, 386 yards. Nearly all the prominent runners of Europe and America will compete there.

At the Revere Beach track Wednesday evening, August 31, there will be a twenty-mile race for professionals.

CORBETT TAKES A SLAP AT JOHN L.

Although Jim Corbett and John L. Sullivan apparently made up at Reno, it was not looked upon as sincere, especially on Corbett's part. Speaking about things that happened at the big scrap in Nevada, Corbett now says:

"They point to the record of a famous ex-champion, who never would fight a colored man, and who berated every man who believed in giving a negro a chance at the title.

"This helps to remind me that after the recent championship contest the first man to scramble through the ropes to greet Johnson as champion was no other than this former pride of pugilism."

Prayer Keeps Our Spiritual Nature in Tune

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner.

ONCE in a time of trouble and of care
I dreamed I talked with God about my pain;
With sleepland courage, daring to complain
Of what I deemed ungracious and unfair.
"Lord, I have groveled on my knees in prayer
Hour after hour," I cried; "yet all in vain;
No hand leads up to heights I would attain,
No path is shown me out of my despair."

Then answered God: "Three things I gave to thee—
Clear brain, brave will and strength of mind and heart,
All implements divine, to shape the way.
Why shift the burden of thy toil on Me?
Till to the utmost he has done his part
With all his might, let no man dare to pray."

DO you believe in prayer?

I hope you do.

Prayer is the wireless message between ourselves and the Great Source.

It keeps the spiritual nature in tune; it softens the feelings and gives wings to hope, and a new impetus to aspirations.

It brings the Invisible Helpers near; and it keeps the electric and magnetic vibrations working between us and Other Worlds; worlds just as real as this world, although we do not perceive them with mortal vision.

But be careful HOW you pray.

You would not, were you a teacher, like your pupils to sit with closed books in their hands and lifted eyes, praying, "O, Dear and Wise Teacher, tell me the contents of these books, give me the answer to these exercises, help me to know my lesson, I pray."

A Poor Way to Pray for Aid

That would displease you; and even if the pupils fell upon their knees, and adored you, and told you they had absolute faith in you, and KNEW you were so good and kind, that you would answer their prayers, still you would be highly displeased that they did not apply themselves and study out their own problems.

Thousands of religious people are treating their Creator in this illogical and unjust manner.

They are continually praying for things which they could obtain for themselves with a little well directed effort.

I do not like to hear any one say he never prays.

A woman once said to me, "I have never felt the need of prayer; never felt the need of a God. I think the Universe the result of natural law. And Nature is all the God I need."

Yet this woman afterward ruined the life of a good man, broke up a beautiful home, and deserted her children to follow her own wayward fancies.

It seems to me it would have been better for her had she known the need of prayer and asked for guidance.

Guidance and strength and Light we may always ask for. It is a prayer certain to bring a response from Space.

Be Sure You Do Your Part

But before we ask for special blessings—for health, for success, for happiness—let us be sure we are doing the best we can ourselves, making the utmost use of our own powers before we ask God to give us these boons.

If you are loading your system with rich foods and stimulating drinks; if you are not exercising all your body every day; if you are not breathing with all your lung cells every day; if you are sleeping in illy ventilated rooms; if you are sitting with sunken chest and bent spine; if you are not keeping your body clean outside and inside; if you are harboring unkind, pessimistic or revengeful thoughts, then you have no right to pray for HEALTH.

If you are waking every morning with a determination to accomplish something; if you wish all created things happiness and success; if you have no mean, or selfish or cruel impulses toward anyone; if you are not afraid of work and are fully alert and ready to see and grasp the opportunity which comes your way, THEN you may pray the Invisible Helpers to send you success and happiness.

But ask for nothing more than strength and light, and guidance, UNTIL with all your might you have done your part.

NO WONDER

THE ancients thought the world was flat,
I'm really not surprised at that;
We'd find it flat, I dare to say,
If we were living in their day.
Just think, they had no autos then,
No show girls to delight the men,
No pipes to smoke and no cigars,
No cocktails served at handsome bars,
No bridge to play and no pink teas,
No liners speeding o'er the seas,
No yellow journals and no flats,
No women's monstrous picture hats,
No tariff problem to attack,
No gowns that button up the back,
No end-seat hogs with manners rude,
No monkeying with the price of food,
No ice bills, no cold storage eggs,
No bunco steerers and no yeggs,
No trolley cars with clang and whir,
No Teddy to keep things astir—
Say, is it any wonder that
The ancients thought the world was flat?

FLOWER FRIEZES

A PRETTY English idea lately come to America is the application of a frieze, consisting of a canvas or paper border of flowers with the background cut away with a sharp pair of embroidery scissors, to the white or green painted walls of a bungalow. The dado or ceiling border thus formed is very effective and may be applied to every room in the cottage, with a differently tinted wall and a different choice of flowers appropriately distributed for each. Try it on your Summer bungalow.

Some Causes of Divorce By Dorothy Dix

Marriage is a hundred-to-one shot at happiness, yet we go into it believing we are bound to win out and live ever afterward in a state of ecstatic bliss.

A THIRD potent cause of divorce is that we expect too much of marriage, and of those we marry.

The real accessories before the crime of divorce, the true co-respondent that should be named, in ninety-nine divorce causes out of a hundred, are the poets and the novelists, who have misled us into believing that the holy estate is a sort of terrestrial Paradise to which a marriage ring is the key, and that the person with whom we enter into it is transformed into an earthly angel.

Why we should be taken in by a thing that we see disproved every day of our lives Heaven only knows. No logic can explain it. The fact remains, however, that we do cling, with a simple and childlike faith, to the belief that love is going to change the universe for us; and when it doesn't, when we come down to earth with a dull, cold thud, only too many of us throw up the whole game. We haven't won the prize we expected, and we won't play any more. So we pack up and hike out for the divorce courts.

We Expect Too Much

The trouble is that, to begin with, we have expected too much of the one we married. We are in love with love, and we marry the ideal that our fancy has conjured up instead of the real man or woman. We have constructed a beautiful and rosy mantle, embroidered with romance, and we cast this over a poor weak man or woman, and then demand that individual to be all that we have imagined him or her to be.

It is an impossible task. No reality ever comes up to an ideality. No vision ever yet materialized in all its perfections; and so it is inevitable that any husband or wife, no matter how worthy, is bound to fall short of the godship that is expected of him or her. No wonder that we cry out that marriage is a failure, and that we have missed our affinities, when we enter into it on such a mad basis.

Literally, the man who is about to lead Susan Smith to the altar deludes himself into believing that she is going to make a wife who is different from every other wife in the world. He sees her, in his imagination, always beautifully dressed, perfectly amiable, utterly reasonable, adoring and unexacting, running a house that goes along on greased skids. Therefore, when Susan turns out to be a perfectly normal woman, with the usual amount of temper and nerves, and lack of reason, when she does fool things, and makes a fuss about his staying downtown of an evening, and he sees her frowsy and cross, wrestling incompetently with the cooking stove and teething babies, he beats upon his breast and says that this is not the woman he thought he was marrying.

And Susan is equally disillusioned. She would have taken her Bible oath that she was marrying a man who was a happy combination of Sir Galahad and a Richard Harding Davis hero; and, when she finds out that this grand and noble being is full of fussy little ways, and is close about money, and can say perfectly awful things when dinner is ten minutes late, why, she gets the jar of her young life. Her idol has tumbled off its pedestal, and she sweeps the fragments up and throws them into the garbage can, and sits down and bemoans herself in the empty and desolate house of her soul.

John and Susan have written "failure" opposite each other's names. They are victims of a disappointment—as dark and tragic as it is possible for the human heart to feel—and only because they have expected too much of each other. If they were only willing to accept what they have to give each other they might be happy and contented.

Marriage is also a failure because we expect too much of ourselves. Somehow the fatuous belief obtains that the marriage service is a sort of incantation that works miracles, and that it has only to be said over a person to change his or her entire nature and disposition.

The man who has struggled in vain against the drink habit marries under the impression that he will never thirst again; the man whose fickle fancy has made him chase every pretty face that ever crossed his path believes he will never turn his head to look at another peach when once he is married; the man, who has the gambler's blood in his veins believes that the pasteboards will have no lure for him once he is married.

The woman who cannot live without constant excitement believes that as soon as she is married she will be content to settle down and never go outside of her doorstep; the woman who is extravagant believes that she will cease to care for fine clothes as soon as she is married; the woman who has a fierce temper and a bitter tongue believes that she will become as mild as a suckling dove as soon as she is married.

When the Illusion Wears Off

And we all, men and women, believe that we are capable of living forever at a high pressure of sentiment; of keeping to our romantic plane and sustaining our ideas. Of course, we aren't, and when we descend to the every-day level on which we are bound to live; when the drunkard thirsts, after marriage, just as much as he did before, and the gambler hankers to sit in a game, and the woman yearns for Paris dresses and finds that things irritate her just as much as they used to—why, then, we simply lack the philosophy to accept the situation on its face and recognize that we have been fools to expect the impossible of ourselves.

Finally, marriage is a failure, as an institution, because people expect too much of it. If we could only bring ourselves to realize before marriage, instead of afterward, that it is the most trying relationship on earth, and that it brings out all of the meanness, the littleness, the sordidness, the ugliness and selfishness in human nature—as well as the noblest qualities—there would be fewer weddings and many, many fewer divorces.

As a matter of fact, marriage is the riskiest proposition in the world. It is a hundred-to-one shot at happiness; and yet we go into it under the besotted delusion that it is the one sure thing at which we cannot lose, and where we are bound to win out and live forever afterward in a state of ecstatic bliss.

And when we don't win, or only win an approximate prize, we make trouble for ourselves and other people.

If we could only make up our minds not to expect too much of our husbands and wives, but to make the best of them as they are and enjoy their good qualities and overlook their bad; if we could size up ourselves and realize that after marriage we are going to be just the same sort of men and women we were before, and have the same habits and tastes; and if we would recognize that marriage is, at best, only a partnership, in which two people, working together, can make a success, but which is bound to be a failure if they pull in opposite directions, we would put a spoke, at least, in the divorce wheel.

Overweening expectations are bound to result in overwhelming disappointment.

Lap o' the Bog

By CAHIR HEALY.

WEARY was I of the clamor and rush of the town,
Of its lies and its sins and seductions, its walls of brown
And its squalid dreams.
And my soul was athirst for the gold-starred brae,
The cabin, rose-grown, and the whims in the May,
The glint of the wine-dark streams.

Strained were my ears for the swish of the wind in the grass,
The rapture of fiddling, the songs of the Sidhe that pass,
On their steeds of the fog,
And the tales by the fire, and the laugh and the tear,
Where reigneth nor gold nor the devil—out here,
In the lap o' the bog.

THE WOMAN WHO KNITS

IF you would make a sensation with your knitting on the hotel porch this Summer start one of the new Roman scarfs in fine Shetland wool. They are the most fetching things in light, warm wraps that have appeared for many a day.

These scarfs are about a yard wide, and as long as one likes; from a yard and a half to two yards is the average. They are knit loosely with huge wooden needles and any one who can knit need not fear to attempt one.

The chief beauty lies in the coloring, which copies closely the Roman silk scarfs of an earlier generation. The stripes are knit across and are formed of four colors, each outlined on both edges. Alternate stripes of white of varying width.

Full directions can be had for knitting this scarf, but a practiced knitter can easily arrange her own coloring and spacing.

The colors chosen are blue, pink, violet and green, each color outlined by a warm yellow for a row or two. Eight hanks of the wool are needed, three of the white and one each of a color—if the set directions are followed.

Memories—and Their Power to Heal

"Oh, memories that bless and burn,
Oh, barren gain and bitter loss,
I kiss each bead and strive at last to learn
To kiss the cross, to kiss the cross."
—THE ROSARY.

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"MY heart is broken," said the girl drearily. "There will never, never again be anything worth living for."

I knew better, for time and youth are the greatest of all healers; but there was no use telling her that.

We had had many such interviews, and, so far, the only consolations I had offered were sympathy and silence; she did not want condolences.

"I have nothing left," she moaned.

"You have some very sweet memories," I ventured.

"Memories," she cried, scornfully, "what good are memories; I want him, and the sweeter the memory, the harder it is to bear living without him."

So I knew that time had not yet begun its blessed healing.

The Sorrow That Healed

Then I thought of another woman, an older woman whom I had lately seen. She had been talking of a sorrow of some years standing. Her face was peaceful and resigned, but the mark if the sorrow was indelibly stamped upon it.

"I could not live if it were not for the memory of those happy years," she said. "At first I thought I could not live, anyway. People said to me: 'You have the children; they will be your comfort.'

"But he was ten thousand times more dear than the children; I wanted him, and nothing could take his place.

"Other well-meaning friends would write 'that separation is but for a while; you will meet again'; but I wanted him then, that moment, the future meant nothing. I wanted the touch of his lips on mine, the clasp of his arm about me.

"One day, some months after his death, I found a shabby old coat that he used to wear when he pottered about the garden in the evenings. I had laughed at him in that coat, laughed at him, dear God, and, four days afterward, he was dead.

"It seemed as if his living, breathing presence were still in that shabby coat. I wrapped the empty sleeves about my neck, and lived over all the hours that we had paced the walks of that shadowy, fragrant garden.

Her Memories All Sweet Ones.

"That night I had my first sleep in weeks, and, after that, the memories came to comfort me. Thank God, they were all sweet ones."

I looked at her sweet face and thought of my younger friend, fihting her lonely fight, and felt that to her, also would come the blessed healing of memories.

Many women and men are forced to live on memories, and if the memories be bitter, life is a sorry thing.

Live so that, if ever comes to be your portion, you will have sweet memories to help you bear the burden.

Life is torment if you have to remember unkind words that can never be unsaid, actions that can never be undone.

Remember that "many go forth in the morning who never come back at night." Never part from any one you love with bitterness in your heart.

It may be hard to confess yourself in the wrong and ask pardon, but it is a thousand times harder to live with the memory of the unkind words.

Let Those You Love Know It

Live so that your memories may be sweet; forgive and forget, and don't be niggardly with your love. Let those you love know that you love them.

Don't make it so that half your life will consist of vain regrets—that you were not more generous with your love and kind words.

"WIND HIM UP!"

A PERFORMING Monkey at Revere decided he had cut up enough antics and refused to entertain the crowd any longer. The master coaxed in vain. Suddenly a little girl in the crowd who was very much excited, cried:

"Wind him up! Wind him up!"

Lorimer in "Shepherd King" and Other Theatre Openings

The welcome that greeted Wright Lorimer in "The Shepherd King" at the Shubert Theatre last night became an ovation when the curtain fell on the third act of the beautiful romantic Biblical play. The house was crowded with an audience that understood the play and followed it appreciatively.

Boston was the first city to set its approval upon this drama several years ago, and in all this city has seen Mr. Wright as David, the shepherd boy, going on twenty-three weeks.

The sincerity of his acting, the lovable character that Mr. Lorimer makes out of the simple shepherd boy of the hills and his prodigious feats later in slaying a lion, defeating Goliath and worsting the armies of the foes of Israel, make an engrossing stage story as depicted by Mr. Lorimer and win him merited praise.

Miss Margot Merriam, the younger daughter of King Saul, with whom David is in love and who reciprocates his affection, is an actress of much beauty and charm. Her scenes with David and her recitation of her rescue from the grasp of a lion by the wonderful young man with the deadly sling, called forth enthusiastic approval from the audience.

The company was strong throughout. Some of the members are new and it was apparent that the performance will be much smoother after a little more practice. The play is very effective pictorially.

There were many clergymen in the audience. The Shubert Theatre began to use girl ushers last night. There was some confusion at the start, but the clever, neat-looking girls in black soon straightened the kinks.

Keith's.

One of the best bills of the season appeared at Keith's last evening with Little Rose Pitonof as the leading light. The failure of the swimmers to reach Boston Light on Sunday seems only to have augmented Miss Pitonof's attractiveness, and she seems in a fair way to rival Annette Kellerman, the audience last evening apparently regarding her as the big card.

Boston's old favorite, Charles Miller, appeared in a delightful new role, that of a monologue artist, presenting an original talk which proved to be humorous and entertaining, while the 1,000-pound quartette evidenced their name and rendered music twice that value. Alf Grant and Ethel Hoag present a neat variety of jingles and jests, proving to be of the first water class.

Joseph Hart in his skit, "The Little Stranger," in which he made such a hit before the Lamb's Club in New York, proved a very pretty story with good support and unique setting, while "The Soldier of Propville," with Mr. and Mrs. Esmonde, was another sketch well worth seeing.

Rice, Sully and Scott, the old time acrobatic clowns, did some very laughable stunts on the trapeze, and the Wood brothers from the Emerald Isle also did some excellent work on the flying rings. Miller and Mack proved themselves at home in both hard and soft shoes and gave a pleasant exhibition in dancing.

American Music Hall.

The Lindsay Morison Stock Company at the American Music Hall again scored a decided hit in their presentation of "The Liars," which is a most difficult production. The play is full of witty dialogue and each player has a very difficult part. The patrons all claim is was the most interesting show of the season as far as the Morison company is concerned.

John Drew's favorite comedy success has always been "The Liars." Miss Gordon played her part well. With Katherine Clinton and Mary Saunders they proved to be a strong trio. Mr. Friebus, as Christian Deering, showed wonderful acting talent. His part was difficult, but he played it with apparent ease.

John Meehan, who is always popular, won the applause of the audience, especially in the third act. Wyrley Birch's character work was excellent. He portrayed Freddie Talton, the husband of Lady Rosamond. The leading parts were well supported and the management is to be complimented on the success of this pleasing performance.

This is the last week of the company at the Music Hall. The speech of Mr. Friebus worked up much enthusiasm on account of his clever command of the English language. Refined vaudeville will succeed the stock company.

Grand Opera House.

Elinor Glyn's famous novel, "Three Weeks," was dramatized at the Grand Opera House last evening before a record-breaking audience. This play was produced last year, but from the applause at the opening performance success is assured for the production for the entire week.

Jeanne Towler is certainly clever. Her playing is very effective, and she portrayed "The Lady." Her love-making scenes attracted much attention, but they were carried out to good effect. Incidentally she had enough of them. She had plenty of rows with the King, but proved to be very diplomatic on all occasions.

William H. Barwald was the King. He represented a dissolute royal character. His acting was stirring. William H. Ferris, who played the part of the hero, was good, and John Payette as the French waiter was amusing.

Howard Athenaeum.

"The New Century Girls" dropped in at the Old Howard yesterday to renew acquaintance with patrons of that house. "The New Century Girls" have much to commend them to amusement seekers, for they have the burlesque idea at their finger tips at all times and they know how to get it across the footlights.

Gloucester Trips.

The North Shore is just as delightful to visit in the latter days of the season as in June and July, and the steamer Cape Ann, which makes the trip to Gloucester, is equipped with all the comforts for a deep water voyage.

Colonial Theatre.

The final week of the engagement of "Three Million Dollars" at the Colonial Theatre began last evening. This merry musical concoction has caught on with the crowd by reason of its many enlivening qualities.

Hub Theatre.

A new program of pictures and vaudeville was presented at the Hub Theatre yesterday and in both branches of the bill there were many winning features.

Globe Theatre.

Not only are the moving pictures among the best in the city, but the vaudeville numbers at the Globe Theatre are picked for their attractive qualities. The new bill at the Globe yesterday found six big variety acts sharing honors with a list of exceptionally strong picture plays.

Majestic Theatre.

And still "The Merry Widow" goes right along, giving delightful entertainment to opera lovers. A new week was begun at the Majestic Theatre last evening and, as usual, the house was filled to capacity.

Waldron's Casino.

The burlesque season at Charlie Waldron's Casino Theatre is now in full working order, with Jack Mason's "The Rollicking Girlies" giving more than one's money's worth in spirited entertainment. As may be imagined from the title, the show is crowded with good-looking girls, who are not found in the song numbers. Of course, there is a large measure of comedy.

Gaiety Theatre.

The Gaiety Theatre threw open its doors yesterday, and the crowds who attended the performances of Roble's Knickerbocker burlesquers found much to interest them. It was a new show throughout with handsome young women and comedians that were funny. Two buriettas were given, "The Love Kiss" and "Reno, or Racing for a Divorce." There were busy times for everybody.

Norumbega Park.

The new vaudeville bill at Norumbega Park yesterday was headed by the Otto Brothers, Dutch comedians, who had everything needed to make real laughs. Others on the program were George S. Lander, a ventriloquist; Carney and Wagner, and Rose, Bettini and La Gusta, wire workers.

Paragon Park.

The usual Sunday and Monday crowds kept the attendants at Paragon Park working overtime the last two days. The free circus and other features gave capital entertainment to those who visited the enclosure.

Columbia Theatre.

The new season of burlesque at the Columbia Theatre opened yesterday with Pat White and his "Gaiety Girls" furnishing the fun. There is no getting behind the fact that Mr. White is at the head of a classy organization, which accounts for the enthusiasm at the two opening performances.

Wonderland Park.

The diving girls are one of the most popular attractions at Wonderland Park, and Annie Morecroft, who attempted to swim to Boston Light on Sunday, is one of the most skilled of the performers.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

The Paul Azard Trio of acrobats headed the show bill at the Bowdoin Square Theatre yesterday. Other live wires in the program were Thompson and Carter and Emery and Nodine. There were also new motion pictures.

Scenic Temple.

There was nothing dull about the new program of pictures and vaudeville at the Scenic Temple yesterday. As an incidental feature to the bill Miss Howe's orchestra gave a concert.

King Philip Trips.

The fishing grounds yielded many big catches to those who made the trip on the steamer King Philip yesterday. The boat was crowded with enthusiastic fishermen.

Satellite Trips.

The steamer Satellite carried a boatload of fishermen to deep water yesterday where it was found that the fishing was good and the weather just right for a lively time.

Bass Point.

SYNOPSIS.

JIMMY VALENTINE, the most remarkable cracksman of the age, who opens safes through the extremely developed sensitiveness of his finger ends, has succeeded in robbing the strong vault of the Greene National Bank.

The swag in this case is big, and Jimmy and his pal, Mike Cotton, make a clean "get-away."

Cotton is a thick-set, bull-necked criminal, whose part is to overpower the bank watchman in the dead of night, and after sandbagging and gagging him, make the path to the safe clear for Jimmy. The latter, after lifting the "dogs" that control the levers in the safe's combination—all by the sense of touch—opens the vault and again steps aside to let the strong-arm man "make the haul." Jimmy's work is that of the high-class, aesthetic, expert enthusiast. He really abhors Cotton and his brutal methods of life. He is concerned for the unconscious night watchman, and soundly berates the thug "for striking too hard."

Jimmy has timed the Greene National job so nicely that he and his pal succeed in catching the 4:25 a. m. train to Buffalo, Cotton carrying the loot, $25,000, in a satchel.

In a compartment, in the same car, Jimmy notices a beautiful girl who who is alone. For the first time in his life the cracksman feels his heart stir with a new emotion. He returns from the smoker to find Cotton, beastly with liquor, in the girl's apartment and attempting to strangle her.

Jimmy, enraged, springs on the man, with the strength and courage of a lion, and while the girl cowers in a corner, the two men fight to the death in the small enclosure. The door, during the scuffle, closes with a snap, and Jimmy knows that it is either his life or that of the drink-maddened man's. The girl looks on horrified and fascinated.

Just when it looks as if Jimmy is to be crushed he secures a jiu jitsu hold on his man, and Mike Cotton goes hurtling through the car window with the train going sixty miles an hour. The girl faints.

When she recovers she finds Jimmy has disappeared. He has dropped off at a water tower where the train slowed up.

Mike Cotton is picked up dying near the railroad, and before he breathes his last, tells in a disjointed way the story of the robbery and accuses Jimmy Valentine.

A reward of $10,000 is out for the capture of Jimmy, and Doyle, the man hound of the New York Police Department, takes the trail.

Jimmy leaves New York immediately and cracks the newest, strongest safe in the country at Springfield, Mass., again using only his fingers to solve the riddle of the construction. Jimmy had been the expert, years before, for the Globe Safe and Lock Manufacturing Company, and his crime was a disease with him.

The new robbery, more startling than the first, causes the hue and cry to be raised again, and Doyle redoubled his efforts. Jimmy is the quarry and Doyle is the most relentless foe the "yeggs" ever had.

THE detectives of the National Bankers' Association and the ambitious headquarters men of every large city would be on the lookout for him.

As he dropped his newspaper in his lap he glanced about uneasily. Then he changed his seat from one in the centre of the car to one very near the door.

For the first time he began to think seriously of Sing Sing. It was not a very entertaining thought. He was young and beyond his unholy and insane desire to get inside of a safe he lived simply and cleanly. All of his people had been straight—good, hard-working people and above the average intellect.

Once, after the first job he had undertaken, he had caught a mental glimpse of the course he had laid out for himself, and the picture closed with the high walls that shadow the Hudson at Ossining. He tried to nip in the bud this indulgence of a mania that enthralled his mind. He became an expert accountant, and for two years lived straight and worked hard.

But the fight failed. Something went wrong with the vault of a downtown bank in New York, where he was employed. The combination was misplaced. He offered to try to open the vault, and he did. His employers marvelled at his skill and then fear struck them at the heart. This man could open their money box at any time. He was not a safe man to have around. They brought his career as a straight man to a close. It was impossible to find work for him. Jimmy was tingling all the time with the delight of having slipped the bolts of that vault.

He might have gotten over it had his place been held for him, but he was out of work and the old craving was back on him. He came in need of money. He went and took it and enjoyed the work.

Now he was being trailed. His problem was to keep out of sight. His train was headed north—for Canada. They would be looking for him there. He would stop this side of the line and double on his track, returning to New York, the great hiding place of the hunted.

Back to New York he came and, brazenly, put up in the West Side Y. M. C. A., where he had lived during the stretch of honest living as an expert accountant. There he was known as Lee Randall. There he would live as Lee Randall. In the underworld he would be always Jimmy Valentine.

CHAPTER VII.

JIMMY VALENTINE was no scoffer. He knew nothing of that pharisaic, better-than-thou attitude which is even more frequently aimed at Y. M. C. A. members than by them at non-members. He took a room at the Y. M. C. A. not because it was a most excellent hiding place, but because there he could live cleanly, and something within kept hammering away in an effort to make him get on the level.

After his first venture as a yegg and his determination to live straight, he had gone there and had been helped. Somehow, the place shaped up as a refuge for him. It was an oasis against the slang and the murderous lore and methods of the underworld.

He was no hypocrite, and did not try to chant hymns or pray. He did like a quiet reading room and a moment's reflection.

Perhaps he prayed when he remembered the faint and lovely scenes that had spread before his youthful vision, when the figure of his old mother came to his mind.

So, while Detective Sergeant Doyle scoured the haunts of crooks, from the dirty rear rooms of Park row restaurants clear up to the Bronx and over the river into hot and dusty Hoboken, Jimmy made cold every trail by staying in the West Side Y. M. C. A., where he worked in the gymnasium to keep his splendid body in fine shape, and where he moped in his room, or in the library, with ever the vision of a blue-eyed girl with soft brown hair and cheeks that were as two peaches in the time of June.

Doyle, like a ferret, kept burrowing in the dark places of the city, and Jimmy Valentine, like any young man with the first intimations of love troubling his soul, soared in the clouds.

But the idleness brought its share of trouble, as idleness has ever ben fain to bring its natural wake. Jimmy bethought him of an old pal, "Red" Jocelyn. "Red" was, to Jimmy, a good man and true, although he would, when opportunity offered, take from those who had more than enough. This "Red" was finishing a term in Sing Sing. They had worked together.

Jimmy killed a dull afternoon by writing to "Red." It is true that Jimmy signed a fake name, and wrote him as a brother much concerned abouth is welfare, and all that, but Jimmy wanted to hear from him and he gave a box address in a little cigar store on Eighth avenue.

Doyle had not overlooked this probability. He had learned that Jimmy and "Red" had been close pals. On this information, he had stowed away, in Sing Sing, in the same cell with "Red," a stool pigeon who was supposed to be doing a five-year bit. This traitor, a crook that sells out his own kind, very frequently for immunity, that he may do his own crooked work unmolested, informed Doyle of the receipt of this letter and of its contents.

The pop-eyed sleuth abandoned his futile search of the dark corners of the great city, and bent his best efforts to locating the letter writer. Red wrote a reply to the letter box address on Eighth avenue, and Doyle, dressed as a street cleaner, with broom and pan, was in front of the little store when the letter was delivered by the mail carrier. He was buying a cigar when a small boy asked for the mail in box No. 8. He followed the boy, using the middle of the street and occasionally wielding his broom.

The boy finally gave the letter to a young man who rewarded him with a half-dollar.

Doyle had no picture of Jimmy Valentine, and only a very scant description, but he felt that he was in touching distance of his man—his quarry. But he was a slow and sure hound in the hunt, and he decided to bide his time. He followed the young man who took the letter from the boy, and saw him enter the West Side Y. M. C. A.

Doyle was puzzled and began to weaken.

"Did I make a mistake in the boy?" he asked himself. "It can't be that the genius of the yegg business is putting up at the Y. M. C. A."

There was no time for calling himself names for having played the fool. The man who had gone into the Y. M. C. A. building was either Jimmy Valentine or some pious young man, who was in danger of having his career blighted if taken on suspicion.

Doyle knew that a mistake on his part, under such circumstances, would create an awful rumpus, and might mean his demotion. Even a relentless plain clothes man is sometimes careful, when his own bacon is at stake. It would not have hurt his conscience any if he did put a struggling young fellow in the "Gallery," without cause, but it would hurt him to the heart if his chief should send him to Canarsie or to Stapleton, or to South Brooklyn, to loaf away the remaining days of his life, after all the work he had done in following the "yegg" line of criminal work.

Doyle entered the building on the heels of Jimmy.

An attendant met him on the threshold. A street cleaner entering any large and well-kept building was an incongruity. Doyle denounced himself for his ill-chosen disguise. The attendant demanded to know what he desired.

"Cut it out," hissed Doyle, and his hiss was like escaping steam. "I'm a Central Office man."

"You've been drinking, perhaps," said the attendant.

Doyle had taken two or three drinks during the day and the odor had clung to him.

"Who's that man?" he demanded, uncovering his shield.

"The young man over there at the desk?" asked the attendant, after he had carefully examined the shield.

"Yes; quick!"

"Why, that's Mr. Randall," smiled the attendant. "He has been a member here for six years."

"What!" gasped Doyle as he tried to master his feelings.

"Yes," replied the attendant, "and if you are a detective really, you can put on your ordinary clothes and ask any one connected with the institution about Mr. Randall. I can tell you one thing, for your own benefit. He is the fastest boxer and all-round athlete we ever had in our gymnasium; so if you annoy him, unjustly, you had better look out."

Jimmy Valentine stepped into an elevator, with the key of his room dangling at his side. As he entered the car he turned and saw Doyle and the attendant and waved his hand in a friendly way.

Doyle's face was a study of anxiety and uncertainty.

Training Children

By ARLETTA B. CANFIELD

"FROM THE CRADLE" is the comment made upon some of us when we do something which is considered beyond the moral law, but not enough to condemn us utterly.

It is this that charactrizes many a man during his whole life, when by a little judicious management during the childhood this might have been avoided.

When a tendency to look lightly upon serious subjects is noticed for the first time in children there should be somebody closely enough related to them to take it up and fix a lesson.

Don't let even any slight failure to see things just as they should be pass. It is the minute things that count in the end. A careless person can let them slip with the idea that she is doing her whole duty by the child, and may by this means be the cause of the loss of liberty or life to him in later years.

Begin in Real Childhood

Don't let anything go with the remark that, "Oh, that's all right. He'll learn better after a time. He's young now and does not know any better." Teach him better right there without failure.

There are many of our young folks who pay no attention to the rights of the other person. Things have come to them so quickly that they have not had time unaided, to pay attention to all the rules of breeding, and they are lost with no one to think about but themselves.

When you see a man on the street with two women and he gives no room for the woman he meets, don't censure him too hard if you get pushed into the mud, but remember that somebody older was at fault in his youth.

He is honest in his belief that he is showing the greatest consideration for the woman in question, and is sorry that he can command no more of the street to give her, but he thinks that he would be derelict in his duty did he break up his line instead of understanding that he would have shown evidence of breeding by dropping behind slightly and condensing his crowd, allowing the woman to pass with plenty of room.

Shows Lack of Breeding.

His idea that he is showing consideration for two women by being rude to one is honest with him, but is nevertheless the one mark in him which shows his breeding.

In the street cars, where the foot makes such a glaring indicator of one's origin, one sees much every day to make him think. The foot is out of its own boundaries regardless of the feet of those in front, and the legs are crossed, contrary to the idea that it is not considered the correct position to assume at any time and anywhere in the presence of others.

The idea with some of our young citizens, that people older than themselves are senile or doted, is comical to the ones criticised and places the originators in a position which they do not see until they are the same age themselves. Then they recognize that these same people were only gathered by experience.

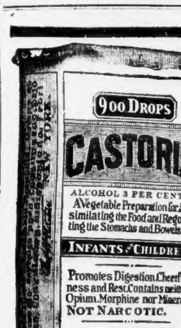

Be Careful in Training.

Now if parents wer careful about their training and would watch such troubles their sons and daughters would have something to help them in their stormy battle up hill in life's walk.

For we do need so much help and must depend so much upon others to make excuses for our awkwardness as we grow.

Think more strongly about what you teach your children at that time. Don't think that they get it at school, for the teacher has not the time to give each pupil all that he needs.

NICARAGUAN RIOTERS PERIL TO AMERICANS

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23.—Victorious after almost a year of fighting, in which 5,000 men have fallen, the Estradan government to-day is making desperate attempts to curb its riotous soldiers and partisans and to protect Americans from violence at Managua, according to dispatches from here to-day.

General Mena, in command of the army that occupied Managua yesterday, to-day doubled the police detail and threw a heavy guard about the American consulate. At the same time, Consul Olivares prepared to call marines from the American gunboats, Yorktown and Vicksburg, at Corinto, should the situation get beyond the control of the Nicaraguan insurgents. Till late last night mobs paraded the streets, and the demonstrations were renewed at dawn to-day.

"Down with Americans."

"Down with the Americans," is the cry. This is ascribed partly to the hysteria of the moment, but to a greater extent to the unpopularity of the course pursued by Washington. Nicaraguans hold the United States responsible for the prolongation of the war through the failure to recognize officially either the Government de facto or the rebels.

That the revolution was pushed on American capital and that American commercial schemes dominate the country now is the belief of the average Nicaraguan—a belief which increases the seriousness of the situation. Since the word spread that Madriz had resigned in favor of General Estrada's brother, it has been unsafe for an American to appear unguarded on the streets. Many have fled to Corinto for protection. Madriz returned to the city after its capitulation and has attempted to aid in the preservation of order.

Quick Settlement Urged.

Mena and other leaders to-day were in communication with General Estrada, urging him to hurry to a decision as to the next step. Already dissension among the victors has become apparent in regard to the presidency. Estrada is not expected to head the new government, though he will play an important part in it. Emiliano Chamorro is named as presidential timber and Mena is popular with his troops.

There is still another danger in the animosity between the provinces of Leon and Granada. Leon supplied the backbone of the Madriz army. Zelaya and Madriz, both from Leon, treated Granada as if it were subject territory. Should Granada retaliate further fighting might follow.

William Pittman, the young Boston engineer, who was caught by the Madriz forces, but escaped from the prison at Managua, is still under the protection of the American consul at Managua.

ONLY ONE HOSE FOR $17,500 FIRE

MARSHFIELD, Aug. 23.—Fire destroyed $17,500 worth of property in East Marshfield. The fire fighters were handicapped by only having one line of hose, and after a hard battle succeeded in keeping the blaze from spreading.

The fire was in the two-story frame building owned by B. F. Howard and occupied as a general store by Robbins & Evans. Frank Evans was repairing an oil tank when the fumes became ignited from a lighted lamp he was holding. The building was a total loss.

INTERNAL ORGANS PHOTOGRAPHED NOW

MUNICH, Aug. 23.—Dr. E. Kaestle, Dr. H. Rieder and Engineer Rosenthal are experimenting with cinematograph roentgen ray photographs of the internal organs of the human body. They have given to the process the name bioroentgenography. Their observations of the movement of the stomach during digestion, they say, have shown the incorrectness of the assumption by physiologists that there are rhythmical contractions dividing the stomach into two parts.

SUPPORTS MISSION AS SALOON SIDELINE

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Chicago claims to have the only mission in the world supported by a saloonkeeper—the Dan Martin Mission, which is in the concert and dance hall back of Cyrus Thompson's saloon.

Thompson pays for the lights, furnishes an organ and gives the place rent free. The meetings begin at 10 p. m. and last until midnight, the mission workers preaching and praying from the stage where the girls dance.

GYMKANA RUN OFF IN BATHING SUITS

NARRAGANSETT PIER, Aug. 23.—Clad in bathing suits, society folk of the Pier engaged in gymkana events on the beach. Robert Sullivan won a dress suit race; R. P. Smith, the apple in the bucket race; Wister Randolph, the egg in a spoon race and the thread and needle contest, while the quarter-mile open race was won by Scudder Mersman. Several pony races followed.

400 PER CENT. GAIN IN BOSTON EXPORT TRADE

Export and import reports for the last seven months, as given out by the Boston Chamber of Commerce, show that foreign exports have increased nearly 400 per cent. over the same seven months last year.

The imports for the week ending August 19 aggregate $1,673,958, while the same week of last year showed $3,129,039. The exports for the same week are $923,146 and for the week in 1909 $789,203.

The figures of export for the past seven months are regarded as most encouraging by the chamber. Early in the year domestic exports fell off slightly, but the June and July figures show a marked increase.

The table of exports for the past seven months of this year and the same months of 1909 are as follows:

	1910	1909
January	$33,088	$78,375

FIGHT FUGITIVE FOUND UNDER BED

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 23.—Routed out from under a bed in which he had been hiding, Daniel Sheppard, wanted on the charge of murder in connection with the death of Willis McLeod, in a brick yard fight, was arrested in a stable to which he fled.

Arraigned with John McTigue and Patrick McTigue, Sheppard, like the others, heard the charge against them in the Municipal Court and were held for appearance without bail. John and Angus Gillis were held in $1,000 each as witnesses.

Witnesses who were heard by the coroner's inquest testified that Sheppard and McLeod had a fist fight which was interrupted by the appearance of the McTigue brothers. As McLeod walked away he called back vile names, it was claimed, whereupon the McTigues followed and administered a beating to McLeod, his death following.

FAILED AT YALE, KILLED HIMSELF

BUFFALO, Aug. 23.—"Life holds no hope for me. 'It is better to leave school and give up your studies,' they told me. I have tried to live and to succeed, but have failed. I have known no happiness since April 1."

So wrote Ralph Coleman in Delaware Park just before he shot himself through the head with a pistol.

The first positive identification of Coleman's body was made by Harold Duncan, a Yale student, who called at the morgue.

He said Coleman had got behind with his studies last Spring at Yale and had decided to tender his resignation, on the advice of the dean. Coleman was a sophomore, twenty-six years old.

BARBERS TO ASK FOR LONGER SIGNS

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—If the fervid appeal of the combined forces of the Italian Barbers' Benevolent Society and the Association of German Barbers of Brooklyn counts for anything the length of barber poles permitted by the city will be seven instead of two feet.

Just at present section No. 263 of the city ordinances limits the length of these totums to two feet, and that is why there was a meeting of the barbers of the five boroughs at Teutonia Hall, Third avenue and Sixteenth street.

Resolutions were framed and will be sent to the Board of Aldermen requesting that the limit be made seven feet.

SEEKS TO SET ASIDE ROAD FORECLOSURE

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Consternation reigned in the ranks of the bondholders' committee and others interested in the settlement of the tangled affairs of the International & Great Northern Railroad Company of Texas when they heard that the Governor of Texas had convened the Legislature in special session to take action to set aside the foreclosure sale of the company's property on September 15 unless the unsecured creditors in Texas received preference.

STEAMER BURNS, ENDANGERING FIVE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Four firemen and a mess boy narrowly escaped with their lives from the hold of the steamer F. A. Kilbern, which caught fire at the Oakland wharf of the Southern Pacific company. They were aroused from sleep just in time to flee from the flames, which soon enveloped the vessel. The steamer will be almost a total loss. She is valued at $175,000 and her cargo at $15,000.

MACHINE PICTURES THE HUMAN VOICE

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 23.—A machine that determines the quality of a human voice or of any musical instrument has been invented by Professor John A. Anderson of Johns Hopkins.

The sound waves go through tubes, reflect upon a mirror, the mirror casts a light on a diaphragm and a photograph is taken showing the record.

HERE'S A MOVING NEWS STAND, THE LATEST IN TOWN

NEWS STAND IS RUN ON WHEELS

Along with the Fall fashions, the latest thing in news-stands has arrived, the new arrival in Boston being a news-stand on wheels, carrying some three hundred dailies from all parts of this country, and the big cities in Great Britain. This latest business venture, which will be known under the name of the Eagle News Company, with location anywhere along Tremont and Washington streets at any time of the day or evening, is promoted by two enterprising young men from Dorchester, H. Goldberg and S. Bloom, both of No. 49 Lauriat avenue, and they declare that a thriving business is sure to be its result.

The stand consists of a body of pyramid shape, on either side of which are five slots, containing the newspapers, this body being set upon two wheels. The whole affair is light and may be easily propelled from place to place, and takes up very little room. Besides, this kind of business place carries with it no rent charges.

The slots have room for about three hundred papers, which are received by the young men every day, and they declare that the latest editions from all the largest cities will be on sale. In addition to papers from all parts of this country, there will be on sale at the stand, papers from the large cities of Great Britain, including London, Edinburgh and Dublin, and later on the young men intend to place a certain Norwegian newspaper on sale.

THIEF'S WARDROBE HIS UNDOING

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Central Office Detective Allen saw a very fat man waddle from a doorway at Bleecker and Crosby streets, and when he buttonholed him his coat came open and exposed another. "Do you think it's November?" asked the detective as he began to unbutton. Vests to the number of seven appeared as the unbuttoning stunt progressed.

"You certainly must be afraid of chills," observed the sleuth. "You look like you have signed for a polar expedition."

Then he found on the man three pairs of trousers, one within the other. At the station the prisoner said he was William Schreyer, forty, of No. 1019 Longwood avenue, the Bronx. Julius Waldstein, a merchant, identified the clothing and Schreyer was held.

COUPLE RE-WED ON DAUGHTER'S PLEA

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—News of the marriage of Dr. Albert Westlake of Rahway, formerly of this city, to his wife, from whom he was divorced eight years ago, was received here. Dr. Westlake was married here in 1896 to Miss Ida Schultz, daughter of Charles Schultz.

A year later a daughter was born. Eight years ago a storm broke and Mrs. Westlake, taking her daughter, went to Spokane, Wash.

Mrs. Westlake secured a divorce. Finally, through the persuasion of the daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Westlake were brought together. Last Thursday they were remarried.

FIRE CALL NUMBERS ARE DECEPTIVE

The system of numbering is decidedly misleading. For instance, we have Box 79 in the Back Bay and Box 78 in the lumber district. There is always the chance that in sending out an alarm a mistake may be made and that the apparatus may be sent in an entirely different direction from the fire. There are three systems of numbers in the Dorchester district. I would have a uniform system of numbers.

The fire underwriters do not care to have us use salt water high pressure, as it damages goods and renders the amount of salvage comparatively small. My idea would be to utilize the Charles River Basin for that purpose. The water there is being made cleaner, and the city could either run a pumping station itself or could contract with the Edison Company or the Boston Elevated to furnish the power.—Acting Fire Commissioner Carroll on department needs.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

There is no question but that the technical condition of the market had become weakened by the protracted advance since July 26. And as is usually the case, the upward movement was the means of building up a weak long account, a large part of the buying from which source came in around the top figures of the movement. The technical position, therefore, was weakened by the retirement of an extensive short interest and the existence of a long account that took fright at the first cessation in the upward movement.

There is a saying in the Street to the effect that "There is no bear like a sold-out bull," and a good many bulls of last week were mighty bearish yesterday. Signs are not lacking that the short interest has been materially increased since last Friday.

$ $ $

Politics promises to be the largest factor in the stock market from now on. Ex-President Roosevelt is to start on a speech-making tour to-day, and his ejaculations may cause State street to sit up and take notice.

$ $ $

Reasons for yesterday's decline were so plain that the losses were received with composure by the Street. There never were anything but technical grounds for the August advance, and it is fading away exactly as it was expected to do. After three days of decline it would not be surprising to see it recover a trifle, but it has no friends. Even its pretended friends are sending out stock on every hard spot.

Stock brokerage houses with western connections began to worry yesterday about the corn crop again. They admit it is doing well at present, but it will not be out of danger of frost for a month, and owing to its lateness at least one-third of the entire crop is exposed this year to the danger of early frost.

Forest fires in the Northwest were given as reasons for selling St. Paul and Northern Pacific. The Street was horrified to learn that several bridges on the St. Paul main line were destroyed by fire. The popular impression had been that the St. Paul extension was "built like the Pennsylvania." This impression is doubtless due to the fact that in the official magazine stories written about this extension only steel and concrete bridges appear in the photographs.

$ $ $

When the facts in connection with St. Paul were published in this column a few months ago, warning the public, they were officially ridiculed. Not one statement contained in those warnings can be proved untrue. The St. Paul has millions tied up in forest lands, and the fires have played havoc there. It will be interesting to see how much of the earnings of the extension are written off for deterioration of forests. But even at that the St. Paul is going to prove a wonderful investment stock in the long run, after it has lived through its period of growing pains.

Investors in general are waking up to the importance of the shrinking balance of international trade. They do not understand exactly what it means any more than do the big people. But that is the very reason it worries them.

$ $ $

The bulls are basing a good deal of their hope for the future of the market upon the recent strength, coincident with a better demand, in the bond market. And indications in this respect are of a more favorable character than at any time for months. Bond houses which have been reporting a dearth of business now say that the improvement is pronounced and that inquiry is from excellent sources. As a barometer of improving stock market conditions, a revival in the bond business has been an infallible sign in the past. However, no one—not even the most ardent bull—looks for a rampant bull market.

There is no life to the money market. This is the natural result of the trade curtailment and the absence of speculation at the stock exchanges.

So eminent an authority as the Engineering & Mining Journal allows that the management of the copper market during the last three weeks has been characterized by far more wisdom than has been manifest for a long time. On previous occasions during the hard times for this metal every little rally resulting from important buying by consumers has been attended by a raising of demands by sellers, who apparently sought by dangling the bait a little over the heads of the buyers to compel them to jump for it. This the buyers would not do, having the sense to see that market conditions were all in their favor.

A local news service says that the American Woolen Co. is giving serious consideration to the question of absorbing the Wood Worsted Mills into its official family, the organization of which was formed in 1905. The principal and interest constituted a contingent lien of the American Company, and will now become a permanent one.

The buying movement in copper, which absorbed close to 200,000,000 pounds, has largely subsided. While sales continue to be made at 12⅝ cents a pound, the volume of business is small as compared with the latter part of July and the first two weeks of August. Producers say the situation is now well in hand and that there will be no material decline in prices, if any.

President F. A. Heinze of the United Copper, Ohio Copper and Davis Daly companies, is back from Europe. "During my absence," he says, "I successfully financed the Ohio Copper Co., within itself; that is to say, without being required to sell or otherwise raise money on British Columbia timber lands owned by the United Copper Co. The financing was accomplished by a sale of $1,000,000 worth of bonds of that company, which were held in the treasury.

Application for listing on the New York Curb of the stock of the Jumbo Extension Mining Company has been posted. There are 1,250,000 shares common stock authorized of par value of $1, of which 994,654 shares are outstanding and 255,346 shares are held in the treasury.

MANY DEAD WHALES ASHORE ON CAPE

CHATHAM, Aug. 23.—The appearance of several carcasses of large whales in nearby waters has brought hundreds of persons from the Cape to see the unusual sight. In cases, the bodies were washed up on the beach, to be carried out again on the ebb. Fishermen are unable to account for the presence of the whales here, or tell how they came to their death. Four carcasses have been washed up, one near the Chatham life saving station, another opposite the Old Harbor station, another at the Orleans station, and a fourth off the Hotel Mattaquison. Fishermen who tried to secure the carcasses with grappling hooks were unsuccessful. Numbers of bodies have been reported out at sea.

CENTRAL LEADS A STOCK SLUMP

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Declines averaging about half a point over the closing of yesterday, with Union Pacific and New York Central leading in the downward movement, were scored in most of the industrial and standard railroad shares at the opening of the stock exchange.

Southern Pacific started by a drop of ⅝ of a point over closing price. Union Pacific followed almost half a point.

The market was under pressure during part of the early session, but fractional gains over the opening prices were scored in almost every issue later. The general tone of the market throughout, however, was weak. Trading was moderately active, and although there was a continuance of the sort of selling which depressed prices Monday, there was a small increase in buying. This represented the covering of shorts.

The most notable feature of to-day's decline was a drop of ¾ of a point in New York Central, although there did not appear to be any particular pressure on this stock.

The decline of yesterday in American stocks continued to-day on the London market. Reports of a heavy loss from the forest fires raging in the West was responsible for the drop.

The curb trading was dull and irregular.

SOUTHERN HOUSE MEMBER IN A FIGHT

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 23.—Congressman J. E. Ellerbe, of the Sixth South Carolina District, and P. A. Hodges, who is opposing him for the re-election, engaged in a fierce fist fight at Lake City, where they had met in joint debate. Hodges in his speech charged that he had been slandered by circulars distributed by Ellerbe, who thereupon called Hodges a liar.

AMERICAN WANT "ADS" BRING QUICK RESULTS

HILLCLIMBERS TO GET BIG RECEPTION

By J. C. KERRISON.

Since the Glidden tourists traversed French Canada and drove down through Maine, in 1906, and found everywhere, along the route the countryside alive with the populace from miles around to welcome them, there has been no tour or contest with so much invitation for motorists to join, just for the sport of it, if for no other reason, than the Catskill Reliability Contest and Hill-Climb, which will occur September 10-12 inclusive. The pathfinders who laid out the course were accorded a hearty reception all along the route, and if that is to be taken as a criterion, the tourists in the contests will be greeted in a manner no other contest can boast of.

The affair being of a combination nature will afford the cars a thorough road test as well as a hill-climbing test. The route selected is picturesque from start to finish, and is charmingly decked with magnificent rural landscapes, with frequent spots of more than ordinary interest. The roads, however, are not of the "billiard-table" variety all the way, as several bad hills and rough stretches dot the course. One hill in particular will be difficult to ascend, and this is Crow Nest Mountain. Motorists dodge the hill as much as possible and go from West Point, which is only five miles away, by some other route. For the most part the roads are good and sufficiently severe to prove the "backbone" of a car.

Rest Over Sunday.

The Motor Contest Association, under whose auspices the contest will be held, has issued entry blanks and judging from the way entries are coming in the affair will have a good field of contestants.

The contest will start from New York on Saturday, September 10, at 7:30 o'clock, but the cars will not check out until assembled in line at Edgewater, N. J. The tourists will rest on Sunday in the Catskills and on Monday the hill-climb will take place. The Kaaterskill Clove mountain, which will be the scene of the climb, has been specially prepared for the event under the supervision of an expert road builder and every detail has been carefully considered to insure safety to contestants and spectators.

A fine program has been arranged for the hill-climb. The classification will be by price and piston displacement in cubic inches which is in accordance with the schedule of the rules of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. The events are as follows:

List of Events.

No. 1 Gasoline stock cars, $800 or under.

No. 2 Gasoline stock cars, $801 to $1,200.

No. 3 Gasoline stock cars, $1,201 to 1,600.

No. 4 Gasoline stock cars $1,601 to $2,000.

No. 5 Gasoline stock cars, $200 to $3,000.

No. 6 Gasoline stock cars, $3,001 to $4,000.

No. 7 Gasoline stock cars, $4,001 and over.

No. 8 Open to amateurs. Limited to cars owned by residents of Catskill and a radius of fifteen miles from Kaaterskill Clove mountain. Handicap according to price.

No. 9 Gasoline stock chassis between 161 to 300 cubic inches piston displacement.

No. 10 Gasoline stock chassis between 301 to 450 cubic inches piston displacement.

No. 11 Gasoline stock chassis between 451 to 500 cubic inches piston dislacement.

A car to be eligible for competition in the hill climb must be a contestant in the tour except for one event, which is open to residents of Catskill and vicinity. The start in all events in the climb will be from a rolling position. The Warner electric timing device will be used in recording the time of cars.

Entries close September 7, at noon, with S. L. Ferguson, Manager of the Motor Contest Association, No. 1,777 Brodway, New York. Information and entry blanks can be had from Mr. Ferguson or from Edward F. Korbel, No. 29 West Forty-Second street, New York.

NEW ORLEANS "1915" "BOOMERS" ARRIVE

The words, "Logical Point, 1915," in the register of the Parker House after the names of John N. Teunisson and John De Philippi of New Orleans, excited considerable curiosity. The visitors explained that they were members of the band of 3,000 "boomers" who were striving to Have New Orleans selected for the exposition to celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal rather than San Francisco.

"Our committee," said Mr. Teunisson, "went to Washinton to see President Taft, who said New Orleans was the 'logical point' for the celebration. That is why we use the term, and it is recognized by the postal authorities."

WOOLEN MILLS RESUME FULL TIME TO-DAY

Many New England woolen mills which have been idle for weeks, or run on short time, started up to-day.

Thousands of operatives were put to work at the looms. The return to full time schedules indicates that business in the woolen industry is improving.

The American Woolen Company, which owns thirty plants in New England and New York, has started additional machinery during the past week. Its mills at Moosup, Ct., Olneyville, R. I., and elsewhere have put several thousand operatives to work on full time.

In Rockville, Ct., another large woolen centre, the four big mills of the Hockanum Company, the mills of the New England, Springville and Minterburn corporations, which have been running on short time schedules since Spring, have resumed operations on full time.

Another mill which will run overtime is the Somerset Mill of Monson, Mass. It adopts a day and night schedule.

The Berkshire Woolen and Worsted Company's mills in Pittsfield started work to-day after a long shut down. The plant was formerly operated by the Peck Manufacturing Company.

The Gonic Woolen Mills in Rochester, N. H., which have been closed down three weeks, also resumed to-day.

HOKE SMITH AGAIN FIGHTS FOR MASTERY

ATLANTA, Aug. 23.—Havy voting followed the opening of the polls to-day in the Democratic primaries. The early indications were for a record breaking cast of votes. For the second time in two years, Georgia is choosing between Joseph L. Brown and Hoke Smith, respectively Governor and ex-Governor. The fight is between progressive Democrats and the standpatters, the latter led by Brown. A hot campaign has worked the entire State up to a pitch of excitement not seen in years. Smith and Brown have been engaged in a political duel since the former, while Governor, dismissed Brown from the railroad commission, alleging that he had been named by the corporations. Then Brown defeated Smith for the nomination two years ago. For two weeks Smith has been touring the State making speeches.

RATS! THEY STOP FISHING INDUSTRY

ONSET, August 23.—"I'm not going any more," said William Roode of this town to-day to Constable Bill Hutchings.

"Rats," said the constable.

"That's just it, that's why," declared Roode. "I went fishing yasterday. The sun was hot and the bluefish were slow in biting. Finally after four hours I caught a fish, a fine large blue fish I laid it on the wharf beside me and baited my hook again. I heard the bluefish give a sudden flop and looked around. There was a great big rat and it had my bluefish in its mouth and was beating it down the wharf. Waht do you know about that?

"Rats," said Constable Bill Hutchins.

LAWSON'S BEAR A PRIZE AT FAIR

BROCKTON, Aug. 22.—Thomas W. Lawson has presented many prizes for the Marshfield fair, to be held to-morrow, Thursday and Friday. The little black bear from Singapore, that was once supposed to be a copper mascot, is one of the prizes, and Mr. Lawson, as press agent, declares it can readily be sold for $300.

A St. Bernard, a brace of beagles, an angora goat, a black ram and a lamb and a pen each of fowl and pigeons constitute the rest of the prizes, and the Dreamwold trademark is on all. The fair this year will hold its first horse show for which tandems and four-in-hands from all along the South Shore have entered.

A Mother's Work and Her Hopes

How Poorly the Mother's Service Is Repaid by Men Individually, and by Society as a Whole!

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

Editor Boston American:

I have copies of each of your editorials for the past five years. In reading these editorials I came across one written by you entitled, "A MOTHER'S WORK AND HER HOPES," which also appears on page 129 in your book entitled, "Editorials from the Hearst Newspapers." This editorial has appealed to me and many of my friends very much, and which I have read over and over again. I have been asked by many of my friends, who are close followers of your paper, to ask if you will reprint this editorial for the benefit of those that had no chance to read it and who should have read it.

CHARLES L. ORNSTEIN.

This editorial is not written for women. It is written for MEN, and for boys; for the millions who fail to appreciate the work that mothers do, for the millions that ignore the self-sacrifice and devotion upon which society is based.

On a hot night, in the dusty streets of a dirty city, you see hundreds of women sitting in the doorways, TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

In lonesome farm houses, far out on monotonous plains, with the late sun setting on a long day of hard work, you find women, cheerful and persevering, TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

In the middle of the night, in earliest morning, when MEN sleep, all over the world, in ice huts North, in Southern tents, in big houses and in dingy tenements, you find women awake, cheerfully and gladly TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

We respect and praise the man selfishly working for himself.

If he builds up a great industry and a great personal fortune, we praise him.

If he risks his life for personal glory and for praise, we praise him.

If he shows courage even in saving his own carcass from destruction, we praise him.

There was never a man whose courage, or devotion, could be compared with that of a woman caring for her baby.

The mother's love is unselfish, and it has no limit this side of the grave.

You will find ONE man in a thousand who will risk his life for a cause.

You will find a THOUSAND women in a thousand who will risk their lives for their babies.

Everything that a man has and is he owes to his mother. From her he gets health, brain, encouragement, moral character, and ALL his chances of success.

How poorly the mother's service is repaid by men individually, and by society as a whole!

The individual man feels that he has done much if he gives sufficient money and a LITTLE attention to her who brought him from nothingness into life and sacrificed her sleep and youth and strength for his sake.

Society, the aggregate of human beings, feels that its duty is done when a few hospitals are opened for poor mothers, and a little medicine doled out in cold-hearted fashion to the sick child.

Fortunately, it may truly be said that the great man is almost always appreciative of his greater mother.

Napoleon was cold, jealous of other men, monumentally egotistical when comparing himself with other sons of women. But he reverenced and appreciated the noble woman who bore him, lived for him, and watched over him to the end. He said:

"It is to my mother, to her good principles, that I owe my success and all I have that is worth while. I do not hesitate to say that the future of the child depends on the mother."

The future of the individual child depends on the individual mother, and the future of the race depends on the mothers of the race.

Think what has been done for mankind by thousands of millions of perfectly devoted mothers.

Every mother is entirely DEVOTED, entirely HOPEFUL, entirely CONFIDENT that no future is too great for her baby's deserts.

The little head—often hopelessly ill-shaped—rolls about feebly on the thin neck devoid of muscles. The toothless gums chew whatever comes along. The wondering eyes look feebly, aimlessly about, without focus or concentration. The future human being, to the cold-blooded onlooker, is a useless little atom added to the human sea of nonentity.

But to the mother that baby is the marvel of all time. There is endless meaning in the first mumblings; endless soul in the senile, baby smile; unlimited possibilities in the knobby forehead and round, hairless head. She sees in the future of the baby responsibilities of government, and feels that one so perfectly lovely must eventually be acclaimed ruler by mankind.

As a result of perfect confidence in its future, the mother gives to every baby perfect devotion, perfect and affectionate moral education. Each child begins life inspired by the most beautiful example of altruism and self-sacrifice.

Kindness has gradually taken the place of brutality among human beings, because every baby at its birth has found itself surrounded by absolute kindness.

The mother's kindness forms moral character.

The mother's confidence and encouragement stimulate ambition and inspire courage.

The mother's patient watchfulness gives good health, and fights disease when it comes.

The mother's wrathful protection shields the child from the stern and dwarfing severity of fathers.

Truly, a man may and should be judged by his feeling toward his own mother, and toward the mothers of other men—of ALL MEN.

In the character of Christ, whose last earthly thought on Golgotha was for His Mother, as in the character of the hard-working, ignorant man whose earnings go to make his mother comfortable, the most beautiful trait is devotion to the mother who suffers and works for her children, from the hours that precede their birth through all the years that they spend on earth together.

Honor thy father and THY MOTHER.

And honor the mothers of other men. Make their task easier through fair payment of the men who support the children, through good public schools for their children, through respectful treatment of ALL women.

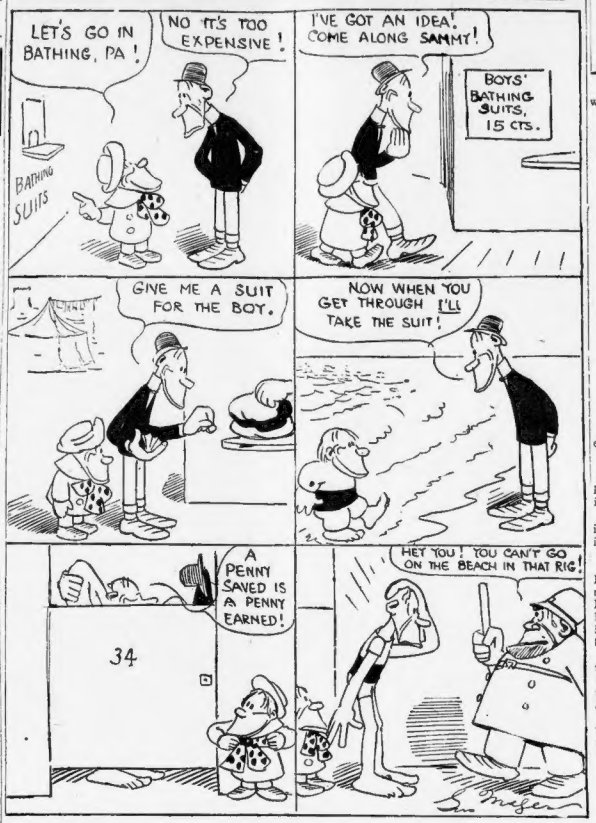

The mother is happy. For she knows "the deep joy of loving some one else more than herself."

You honor yourself, and prove yourself worthy of a good mother and of final success, when you do something for the mothers of the world.

Tightwaddo, the Monk!

Has an Englishman a Right to Express His Opinion?

Yes, Indeed, He Has—and He Usually Does It

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

An indignant Englishman sends us for publication a letter above which are written the words "The Freedom of the Press."

Here is the letter:

FOR PUBLICATION

"THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS"

To the Editor:

I write this letter because I know that you are always fair and fearless. I am an old scribbler and have written for many magazines and newspapers in U. S. A., Canada, France, England and West Indies. Recently I wrote some political stuff that contained the Truth and was of importance to the People of my town. It was refused by the papers because, and only because, I am an Englishman and such subjects were in consequence "none of my business." It is true that I am by birth an Englishman, but I have lived in this great country for twelve years and am in heart and soul a true American. My papers are not yet obtained for certain domestic reasons over which I had no control. But the will and spirit are there, because I am training all my children (one born here) to be good, true American citizens. Now, sir, under such conditions, am I or am I not permitted by the Constitution of U. S. A. to write or talk on subjects (without pay) that are of vital importance, not only to the people at large, but also to my family and to myself? Thousands of Englishmen in this country would be grateful for your opinion, because it would be given without fear and without favor.

Am not I, an humble, unknown man, entitled to courtesy in the U. S. A.? Yours truly,

ALBAN E. RAGG.

This is a republic, and we say most decidedly that Mr. Ragg IS entitled to express his opinion on every subject and any subject.

It is the right of every man to say what he thinks, wherever he be.

It is also the right of others to answer. It is the right of a newspaper, of course, NOT to print a man's opinions, if it doesn't think them interesting, important, or publicly useful.

It would be a sad day if an Englishman could not speak his mind in this country, and a very unusual day if he DID NOT speak his mind in all countries.

Over here we are not English, or Irish, or German, or French, or Italian—just a mixture. This mixture which we call the American nation owes a great deal to all its ingredients. It owes a good deal to England, for instance—remember that George Washington was English. He spoke his mind quite emphatically; in fact, he is the man who made himself from an Englishman into an American, by changing this country from an English into an independent American country.

A man doesn't need to be born in a country or to be a citizen of a country to be listened to—if he has anything worth while to say. Many millions of us still listen to and heed the wise sayings, opinions and criticisms of Moses, for instance—although he certainly never was an American citizen.

And we listen to and revere the opinions of many old Greeks who fought and thought and talked before there were any Englishmen—except a few gentlemen with stomachs painted blue, drinking each other's blood, and picking each other's bones.

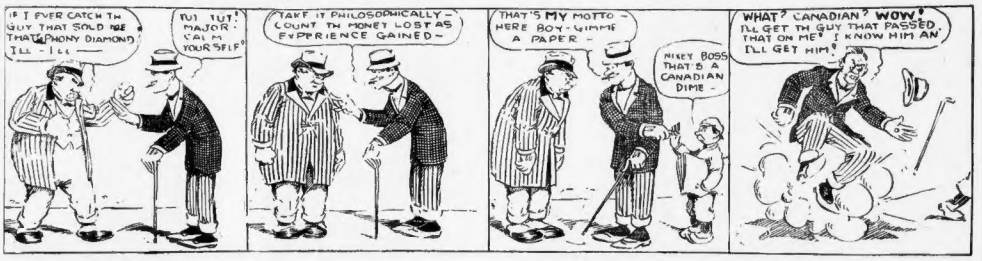

Let us be kind and tolerant, and remember, "He liveth best who loveth all things, both great and small, for the good Lord, who loveth all, He made and loves them all."

He made and loves the Englishmen—let us be kind to them also.

Even as You and I!
